Season's Topsy-Turvy, Summer Extends Into November

Calendar reads Nov. 6, but growing grass has to be cut on city boulevards by Art Farey, on power mower, and partner George Bryant finds making finishing touches with hand machine hot work under brilliant sunshine. Weatherman predicts clear skies tonight and Friday, with temperatures between 42 and 52 degrees. Frost that settled in low-lying areas overnight is expected again tonight.

Island Logger Escapes Gallows

Verdict of Manslaughter In Fairweather's Trial

Special to the Times

NANAIMO, Nov. 6.—A Vancouver logger, after living under the shadow of the gallows for more than a year, today was given a new lease on life.

Albert Fairweather, 28, whom a spring Assize Court jury found guilty of murder, for which crime a judge sentenced him to be hanged, today faced a second jury in Nanaimo Assize Court and heard its foreman dismiss the murder charge and find him guilty of the lesser charge of manslaughter.

The jury's verdict came at 12.15.

A retrial for Fairweather was ordered by B.C. Court of Appeal in May when defense counsel appealed conviction on a point of law.

The retrial opened Monday when he was charged a second time with murdering Raymond Boyce, 24, also of Vancouver, during a fracas on the Island Highway a mile north of Duncan on September 19, 1951.

NEAR BREAKING POINT

Since then the ill-starred Fairweather has been dogged by events that have come close to breaking him completely.

Severely injured in the affray that was fatal to a fellow logger, Boyce, he eluded capture for 46 days but was finally arrested in an Edmonton hospital November 5, 1951, after undergoing an operation.

At an Assize Court trial in the spring he was found guilty of murder, and was sentenced March 13 by Mr. Justice J. V. Clyne to hang on June 12.

In May he was granted a stay of execution, and in Court of Appeal was granted a new trial.

This trial was delayed when Fairweather, held in Oakalla Prison, stabbed himself with a home-made knife.

The injuries were not serious, and Warden Hugh Christie said at the time that the knifing appeared to be an attempt to delay trial and not suicide.

His retrial, which resulted in the manslaughter verdict, opened Monday.

Fairweather will be sentenced by Mr. Justice Norman Whittaker at the end of the present Assizes, now expected to continue until Thursday.

COUNCIL TOLD GOVT. WILL KEEP ALL SALES TAX

Belief that the provincial government will take over the entire 3 per cent sales tax was expressed by Ald. Waldo Skillings at a meeting of City Council's finance committee today.

"There is going to be a new shuffle of the tax, news of which will probably be released any day," Ald. Skillings stated.

He said the government would get "a new education cost formula" founded on a mill rate basis.

"It will change the whole picture of school costs."

He did not believe that any municipalities would suffer by the shuffle.

Municipalities at present receive one-third of the sales tax.

Paper Industry Held a Combine

$50,000,000 Canadian Business Accused of Illegal Price-Fixing

OTTAWA, Nov. 6 (CP).—Virtually the entire $50,000,000 fine paper industry in Canada was accused of operating an illegal price-fixing combine in a report made public today by Justice Minister Garson.

Forty-four companies — seven paper-making mills and 37 merchant companies spread from Vancouver to Halifax — were named in the report by Combines Commissioner T. D. MacDonald, prepared after four years of investigation.

Mr. MacDonald alleged that the companies used "loyalty" discounts and other means to restrict competition and combined in one or more groups to maintain prices at fixed levels "detrimental to the public interest."

He suggested that tariffs on imports be cut as one way of infusing new competition into the industry which allegedly had maintained the combines in one way or another for the last 17 years.

CONSIDER PROSECUTION

Mr. Garson, in making the 200,000-word, 433-page report public, said he will seek legal advice before deciding whether to launch court prosecutions against the accused.

He already has under consideration a previous report alleging the existence of a combine among 19 rubber companies. A decision as to whether prosecution will be launched against this group likely will be made Friday.

Today's report was made under provisions of combines investigation legislation which was superseded Nov. 1 by a new law. Under the former law, Mr. MacDonald investigated alleged combines and reported directly to the justice minister. The new law provides for a three-man board to hear argument from accused companies and persons before a report is made.

Fine papers include paper used in publishing books, magazines, writing paper and envelopes, but it does not include newsprint.

1,500 Airmen Planned for Comox Base

By ROY THORSEN
Times Staff Reporter

COMOX, B.C., Nov. 6—Comox air base, now being expanded and renovated, is the biggest R.C.A.F. operational base west of the Great Lakes, and when fully manned, will have upwards of 1,500 personnel.

At a briefing here this morning, Group Capt. G. S. Austin, station commander, reported he expected to have a squadron of CF-100 jet fighters some time next year. At present seven Lancaster bombers are based at Comox.

Extensive renovations include completely new married quarters for station personnel, which will "compare favorably to anything on 'civvy street'," according to Group Capt. Austin.

The Comox base covers an area of 25 square miles.

Canada Warned Spending Must Be Restrained

QUEBEC, Nov. 6 (CP).—C. F. Fraser, director of the Institute of Public Affairs, Dalhousie University, Halifax, said today Canada must show restraint in spending or face economic destruction and political oblivion.

In an address prepared for delivery before the 30th annual meeting of the Canadian Woollen and Knit Goods Manufacturers' Association, Mr. Fraser said present-day inflationary tendencies threaten to bring about either "a totalitarian system of price policy" or a "collectivist-Communist economic society."

"Unpalatable as such a conclusion may be, the fact remains that the blame for inflation rests upon the shoulders of the individual citizen."

Mr. Fraser said causes of inflation include huge sums of money paid out in social security measures, pressure by trade unions for higher wages and farm blocs for higher prices, expenditures to help economically-backward countries become industrialized to the point where they could become competitive with home industries and efforts to "share the wealth with other countries ostensibly because such international generosity will thwart Communism."

He said money paid out in social security was an inflationary effect because those in the higher income brackets pay their taxes largely out of money they would otherwise have saved, while those in the lower income groups largely consume the extra money they receive.

Ike Must Get Dem. Support

Bipartisan Backing in Congress Needed; G.O.P. Margin Narrow

AUGUSTA, Ga., Nov. 6 (AP).—President-elect Dwight Eisenhower suggested today that he meet in about 10 days with President Truman to discuss the problem of peace.

Eisenhower replied to a telegram received Wednesday from the president in which Truman proposed such a meeting. The president-elect messaged back that "we tentatively plan the proposed meeting for the early part of the week beginning November 17."

Meanwhile, he said he plans to appoint representatives "for indoctrination in several other departments in the federal government. In this way our own conference can achieve maximum results."

WASHINGTON, Nov. 6 (AP).—The United States Congress has returned to Republican control by a margin so thin that president-elect Dwight D. Eisenhower probably will depend upon bipartisan support to put through many of his policies.

This support, many believe, he is likely to get.

While the general was winning with a landslide vote Tuesday, his supporters fought bitterly for seats in the 83rd Congress.

Eight congressional races went into vote-by-vote counting, with at least three of them dependent upon absentee ballots. In some close races, defeated candidates have indicated they may contest the outcome.

Complete Senate returns gave the Republicans 48 seats and the Democrats 47. Senator Wayne Morse of Oregon, who resigned from the Republican party to support Governor Adlai Stevenson, was listed as an independent. His vote cast with the Democrats could in theory force a deadlock, which the Republican vice-president, Richard Nixon, could break with his vote as Senate leader.

The Democrats held a 49-47 edge in the 82nd Congress.

Republicans Tuesday won 220 seats in the House of Representatives, two more than necessary for control. The Democrats took 206 but one of these became vacant with the death early today of Representative Adolph J. Sabath (Dem., Ill.), dean of the House who had just been elected to his 24th consecutive term.

One independent who usually votes with the Democrats was re-elected, and Democrats were leading in all eight undecided districts.

The Democrats held 232 House seats in the last Congress, but this advantage was largely nullified by an anti-Truman voting coalition of Republicans and Southern Democrats.

The victory gives the Republicans a voting edge, but they will gain greater power by controlling committee chairmanships and other top positions in both Houses. From these posts, Republican leaders can direct the progress of legislation.

IKE'S VOTES 32,690,700

WASHINGTON, Nov. 6 (AP)—Dwight D. Eisenhower drew more popular votes Tuesday than any other presidential candidate in United States history in an election which also set a new high for total votes cast.

The Republican president-elect received 32,690,700 votes with 4,924 of the country's 146,361 prescincts still to be heard from. The previous high was piled up by Franklin D. Roosevelt in 1936—27,751,597 when all returns were in from his race with Alf. M. Langdon.

Tuesday's incomplete total vote cast for both Eisenhower and Democrat Adlai Stevenson added up to 58,965,791, compared with the previous record of 49,820,312 set in 1940 when Roosevelt defeated Wendell L. Willkie.

DEMOCRATS TALK ADLAI FOR NEW DRAFT IN 1956

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Nov. 6 (AP).—Governor Adlai E. Stevenson's presidential headquarters were being dismantled today, but his top lieutenants already were talking of another draft-Stevenson movement for 1956.

Out of the wreckage of the Democratic defeat has grown a strong feeling here that Stevenson—as titular head of the Democratic party—will be the top challenger against the Republicans in another four years.

The Illinois governor remained silent on his future plans. But those around him did not consider his defeat Tuesday by Dwight D. Eisenhower the finish of his political career.

Stevenson was expected to make clear within the next few weeks, after a vacation, what his personal plans will be.

Saskatchewan Gives Mayors New Terms

Regina Returns Grant for Second Term; Saskatoon, Moose Jaw Approve Fast Time

REGINA, Nov. 6 (CP).—Saskatchewan voted Wednesday in province-wide municipal elections and in most cases gave the favorites whopping majorities, especially the incumbent mayors.

In Regina Mayor Gordon B. Grant piled up a 6-1 majority in winning a second term against Stanley H. Morrison. In Saskatoon Mayor J. S. Mills, a teacher, swept to his seventh term by burying William M. Berezowski, Labor Progressive journalist, under a 14-1 landslide.

In Moose Jaw Mayor Louis H. Lewry, 33-year-old former newspaper man, won his fourth term with a 3-1 majority over Robert West, retired engineer who was mayor in 1949.

These were all two-way mayoralty fights. In Swift Current, J. E. Friesen, barrister and former alderman, was elected mayor by a substantial majority over former Alderman Irving Hansen and C.P.R. clerk George Wood. The mayor of Saskatchewan's other major city, J. M. Cuelenaere of Prince Albert, was returned by acclamation to his seventh term.

Daylight saving time was approved by a 600-vote majority in Saskatoon and unofficial figures indicated it also was headed for an affirmative vote in Moose Jaw.

Prince Albert voters approved a $100,000 money by-law for sewers and a referendum calling for a housing scheme to give the city 40 new housing units.

Draft Anscomb Move Seen Possibility

Progressive Conservative leader Herbert Anscomb today declined to comment on mainland reports that he may try to retain his party's leadership at the Nov. 29 convention in Vancouver.

It is known some Tories have been approaching Mr. Anscomb and asking him to stay in the fight, but the former finance minister has not committed himself.

If there is a big enough demand, some sources contend, Mr. Anscomb will try and retain the leadership.

These sources admit, however, such a move would probably create a terrific row within the party.

Davie Fulton, Kamloops M.P., is considered a strong possibility for leadership although he hasn't indicated as yet if he is interested.

Howard Green, Vancouver-Quadra M.P., has said he is not in the running, and Maj.-Gen. G. R. Pearkes, V.C., M.P. for Nanaimo, also has declined.

Radiant Photo Of Elizabeth Draws Raves

LONDON, Nov. 6 (BUP)—Prime Minister Winston Churchill telephoned the British United Press photographic department in London and said:

"Please send me two 18-inch by 12-inch enlargements of that wonderful photograph of the Queen. Also, please give my sincere congratulations to the photographer."

The photographs were sent to No. 10 Downing Street.

When Queen Elizabeth rode in her Irish state coach Tuesday to open Parliament, British United Press photographer Charles James Dawson took a picture of her that has set Britain and the Commonwealth talking.

Cutlines in the London newspapers accompanying the picture include such phrases as "this radiant picture of the Queen needs no caption."

U.S. Rejects Red Protest

WASHINGTON, Nov. 6 (AP).—The United States today rejected a Russian protest against creation of a sea defense zone in Korean waters. A State Department spokesman called the complaint a Red attempt "to deceive people."

The Soviets objected to an order by Gen. Mark Clark, United Nations commander in Korea, establishing a "sea defense zone" in South Korean waters. (See story, Page 3.)

CRASHED THREE TIMES

Bush Pilot Tells Harrowing Story

FAIRBANKS, Alaska, Nov. 6 (AP)—A bush pilot walked out of the Alaska wilderness Wednesday and told a harrowing story of a six-day battle to reach civilization after his plane was forced down in a snowstorm.

Joseph Cook's story was one of desperation and frustration—of how he made a last-ditch takeoff from a strip he hacked out with a hatchet, only to run out of gas in flight.

The Alaska flier, formerly of Madison, Wis., had been sought since he vanished Oct. 30.

As many as 20 planes had joined in the search for him in hazardous weather.

Cook said he landed on a sandbar when he lost his way in snow flurries a week ago.

He got into the air again, but snow forced him down on a hilltop. His plane was damaged.

For four days he worked with a hatchet to clear a 1,500-foot strip through brush. Then he made three takeoff attempts. Each time the plane skidded into brush and suffered more damage.

Although the fabric on the plane was badly ripped he managed to get into the air on the fourth attempt.

Cook said he was in sight of the Yukon River when the plane ran out of gas.

"I thought I could glide to the river but without the engine, the damaged plane dropped like a streamlined rock," he said. He crashed and was thrown clear.

Although exhausted and bruised, he walked two days and two nights.

After reaching the Yukon River bank across from the village of Tanana, he dropped exhausted and fired a pistol.

A villager heard the shots and picked Cook up. His condition was reported as good.

CHARITIES MUST FACE CUTS

Community Chest May Founder

Grave doubts concerning the advisability of maintaining Greater Victoria's Community Chest as collection agency for 17 separate welfare and service organizations here were expressed by certain Chest directors at a special board meeting Wednesday night.

M. V. Chesnut and Tom Denny declared that since citizens had shown themselves unwilling to support the Chest to a sufficient extent, the Chest should disband, and that the various agencies should resort to the old system of campaigning separately for funds the year around.

Mr. Denny felt that after one or two years of this, business persons and the public generally would clamor for re-establishment of a united appeal, and would then give it proper support.

There was considerable opposition to this idea, however. Board member Alex Mitchell won support when he argued: "The Chest may have some flaws but it's basically sound and good. We can't destroy it because we have come up against difficulties."

Chest president G. E. G. Whitaker, who has announced his resignation, outlined a plan whereby the Chest could continue to function if its member agencies cut their operations so as to stay within limits of the amount which the public was able to subscribe.

"It's a case of cutting the cloth according to what we have," he said.

He estimated that each of the agencies would have to cut services by about 35 per cent.

"I'm sure they will go along with it," he reiterated today. "The only alternative would be to close the Chest as a joint fund-raising organization. I cant' see that at all. I'd say that possibility was pretty remote."

From the meeting Wednesday night, however, it appeared that at least some of the agencies will raise strong objections.

Conway Parrott, speaking for the Family Welfare and Children's Aid, declared "The Chest must fulfill its function. We think it should raise the money required even if it means campaigns in spring, summer, fall and winter."

R. B. Mathews and J. A. Craig, joint chairmen of this year's Chest drive, said the Chest would lose by attempting to present more than one campaign a year. As reasons for this year's failure, they cited long strikes, economic conditions and the extra campaign held in the spring.

"It was not the committee or its canvassers that failed; it was the people of Greater Victoria," Mr. Mitchell added.

"For every $1 we spent in advertising, the newspapers and radio stations gave us $100 worth of publicity free," he said.

Meeting between Chest officers and representatives of the 17 member agencies has been called for Friday, Nov. 14.

The recent campaign netted $144,000. There is still some hope this figure might eventually hit $155,000. Objective of the drive was $195,000.

Funds on hand are sufficient for the agencies until October, 1953.

Community Chest seems t' hev a collapsed lung.

ONE WOMAN'S DAY

By NANCY HODGES

PRESIDENTIAL POSTMORTEM

BY THE TIME this appears in print the U.S. presidential campaign will be over. The election "captains" and "kings" will have departed from the public arena and only the shouting and tumult of the jubilations and wails of the respectively victorious and defeated forces will remain to rend the air waves.

Perhaps I should qualify that and add that, in place of the barrage of smear and smirch—which, according to seasoned observers was the worst in the whole of U.S. political history—we shall now hear the alibis of the pollsters and pundits, whose guesses proved wrong.

TRANSFORMATION SCENE

HAVING FOLLOWED the campaign right from its inception, I was amazed at the mountain of personalities and invective that grew out of the original molehill of disappointed hopes. When the two presidential candidates were nominated, a wave of acclaim was heard from all parts of the United States. Newspapers of every political stripe joined in hailing them as men of tested character and flawless integrity, of the calibre to fill the White House position with the dignity, prestige and honor that great office merits.

But when the campaign really got under way—oh, boy! These erstwhile fine citizens these men of probity and high purpose, and their co-candidates, overnight were miraculously changed into reprobates, cheats, rascals. It was as if the old fairy tale process, by which ugly ducklings were transformed into gallant princes, had been used in reverse.

BARRAGE BY AIR

FOR WEEKS THE air waves were filled with the detonation of blasts against their personal, private and public habits of living and doing. So much so that, as a very humble specimen of the politician species, I more than once breathed a grateful prayer that we don't do things in quite the same way in Canada.

True, we occasionally have our "smears," usually from sources from which one would hardly expect them. But such departures from recognized political ethics are so rare as to evoke shocked surprise from the majority of the electors, and a consequent reaction again the "smearer."

ITS FUNNY SIDE

HOWEVER, IN SPITE of this curious side to American political campaigns, there is another, funny side, too. I am always intrigued when the final results are announced, at the complete oblivion into which the various other candidates are consigned.

For instance, you never hear a word as to how fared such aspirants as the dougty ex-soldier who ran on the vegetarian ticket, or the Bishop of the New York branch of the Church of God, who campaigned on a "righteousness ticket" and publicly beat swords into ploughshares to point up his "Peace on Earth" slogan.

INNKEEPER'S KEG

NOR SHALL WE be likely to hear anything more of the New Jersey tavern-owner and pig-farmer, Henry Krajewski, who took up his stand on a beer-keg on the sidewalks of New York and campaigned for president on his "Poor Man's Party." He blasted at machine politics and urged, among other things, free, government-provided milk for all school children, at the same time distributing celluloid rulers to youngsters who crowded around him.

Those free rulers remind me, too, of another funny incident of this campaign. At a Springfield, Ill., Republican rally, free ice cream bars were given away. As long as the ice cream lasted, the youngsters yelled "We Like Ike!" But as soon as the supply ran out, they stormed the ice cream truck. Police who were hastily called found that the vendor had locked himself inside the truck, while the irate children were yelling "We Want Stevenson!"

Which reminds me that even adults—and not only in the United States, either—have been known to switch political allegiance when no "hand-outs" were forthcoming.

U.N. Votes Japan Into Air Group

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y., Nov. 6 (AP).—The United Nations General Assembly today voted to permit Japan to join the international civil aviation organization.

The vote was 53 to 0 with six abstentions—the Soviet bloc plus the Philippines.

The vote came on a resolution submitted by Canada, Peru, the United States and Venezuela. It formally expressed the assembly's wish "to inform the international civil aviation organization that it has no objection to the admission of Japan to the organization."

Heads Will Roll After Ike Win

Shakedown Faces State Department, Often Focus of G.O.P. Complaints

BY JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON, Nov. 6 (AP).—The United States State Department, target of Republican attack for six years, today got ready to face an inevitable Republican shake-up.

Gen. Dwight Eisenhower's election victory Tuesday unquestionably means that heads in the department will roll. Estimates of the number of high officials and diplomats who will be ousted range from 40 to 100 or more.

That Secretary Dean Acheson is out no one disputes. He has planned for months to return to his Washington law practice whether Eisenhower or Governor Adlai Stevenson succeeded Truman. The top echelon under Acheson embraces upwards of 20 persons.

In addition there are men who have been closely identified with Acheson's policies, such as Philip Jessup, ambassador at large, and the policy planning chief, Paul Nitze.

Abroad a total of 72 ambassadors and ministers head up U.S. diplomatic missions. Of those, department officials said today, approximately 50 are career foreign service officers and the rest are political appointees.

Many changes in foreign posts are expected to be worked out by the Eisenhower administration. Speculation is that he will accept resignations of all the political appointees including such ambassadors as Richard C. Patterson, Jr., in Switzerland, Charles Ulrich Bay in Norway, Walter S. Gifford in Britain, William O'Dwyer in Mexico, and Pete Jarman in Australia.

The big question in the department is what will happen to two career diplomats who have been assailed by various Republicans in Congress. They are John Paton Davies, now attached to the diplomatic staff in Germany, and John Carter Vincent, diplomatic agent and minister in Tangier.

Both men are identified with China policy prior to the loss of China to the Communists. Both have been repeatedly investigated by the state department's loyalty and security board. Both have their clearances pending for review.

Pollisters Missed, Too Cautious

NEW YORK, Nov. 6 (CP) — The professional pollsters, who went off the deep end in 1949, admitted Wednesday that they were too careful about getting their feet wet in the 1952 election campaign.

The public opinion specialists, remembering their bitter lesson four years ago when President Truman scored an upset over Governor Thomas E. Dewey of New York, backed away from flat predictions in the final days of this year's campaign.

Here are predictions by some of the major pollsters and what they said afterward:

Elmo Roper, head of the Roper Poll: "There ought to be enough people still undecided to throw this election either way."

Today, Roper conceded he is "open to the charge of being overly-cautious this year. "But," he added, "I made no prediction, and I don't ever intend to make a prediction until those undecided people tell us what they intend to do."

George Gallup, director of the American Institute of Public Institute of Public Opinion: "Continuation of acceleration of the trend to Governor Stevenson . . . would give him a majority of the popular vote. . . ."

Gallup today confessed he underestimated the Republican victory, but said his poll "stayed within its normal margin of error."

Archibald M. Crossley, director of the Crossley Poll, also had predicted this election could have gone either way.

Today, Crossley said the big Republican effort to get out the vote apparently turned the trick.

IKE STILL KEEPING EYE 'ON THE BALL'

AUGUSTA, Ga., Nov. 6 (AP)—Gen. Dwight Eisenhower began a 10-day vacation today with a date for golf.

The president-elect put aside for a moment numerous pressing problems. His plans for the day included nothing but an afternoon round of golf at the National Golf Club where he is staying. His schedule so far embraces more of the same plus some fishing and the complete rest he has not known in months.

Eisenhower flew here from New York Wednesday.

He has Mrs. Eisenhower with him at the golf club. His daughter-in-law, Mrs. John Eisenhower and her three children, Dwight David, four, Barbara Anne, three, and Susan, nine months, and Mrs. J. S. Doud, his mother-in-law, are also here.

Secret service agents charged with the responsibility for his safety moved in on the golf course before Eisenhower and his family even arrived. Other agents were on hand in New York almost as soon as his election was confirmed. Some rode with him on the flight to Georgia.

German Prisoner Tells Of Escape, Joining R.A.F.

DUBLIN, Nov. 6 (Reuters) — A German now living here disclosed how he escaped from a wartime prison camp in Britain and joined the R.A.F. posing as an Irishman.

Leo Dalderup, 28, now living under the adopted name of George Winston Gallagher, said he had written a voluntary confession of his secret to R.A.F. authorities. (They confirmed the story in London Wednesday.)

"I decided to make my exploit public in order to show how spies and saboteurs could fool the defense authorities," said Dalderup, now married to an Irish girl.

Dalderup said he was captured by Allied troops in November, 1944, and brought to Britain. In August, 1946, he escaped and stowed away to Dublin.

In October, 1947, Dalderup walked into a registry office, said he was Gallagher and got a birth certificate. He then joined the R.A.F.

He later got his discharge in the ordinary way. Authorities knew nothing of his secret until his confession.

Canadian Envoy

OTTAWA, Nov. 6 (CP).—Hon. Ray Lawson, former lieutenant-governor of Ontario, will go to New York as Canada's consul-general, the External Affairs Department announced today.

Although technically he will not be a diplomat, he will fill one of the top half-dozen official posts Canada maintains abroad.

He succeeds Kenneth Greene of Ottawa.

R.O.K.'s Pulled Off Triangle

Lack of Trained Leaders Seen Reason for S. Korean Set-Backs

SEOUL, Korea, Nov. 6 (UP).—The 8th Army today called off costly South Korean attempts to recapture Triangle Hill and Gen. James A. Van Fleet flew to the scene to determine whether anything could be salvaged from the Allied setback there.

The 8th Army ordered South Korean infantrymen to abandon for the present their attempts to recapture Triangle Hill on the central front after the Roks' eighth assault in five days Wednesday ended in bloody failure. The battle lasted nine hours.

The American 7th Division captured Triangle Oct. 15 and later turned its defense over to the South Koreans, who lost it to the Chinese last Friday.

United Press war correspondent Victor Kendrick said Van Fleet, commander of the 8th Army, visited the Triangle Hill sector today "to see if anything could be salvaged."

Explanations Await Eisenhower

CENTRAL KOREAN FRONT, Nov. 6 (UP)—When President-elect Dwight D. Eisenhower comes to Korea, he probably will be told that the South Korean army, even if given all-out American material support, cannot be counted upon to defend Korea alone for a long time.

Several American officers serving as advisers to the Rok forces on this front said building a South Korean army strong enough to hold the entire front and check a renewed Chinese offensive would take years, not months.

The biggest single problem is a shortage of experienced leaders, from sergeant to general, and the heavy casualties suffered by infantry combat leaders just as they are becoming effective after months of training.

Maj. Edward J. Russell, Honolulu, an American adviser with a Korean division, said:

"During the battle for Triangle Hill the infantry got within 50 yards of the top at least 10 times. A good squad or platoon leader could have taken them the rest of the way."

"They just didn't have that last ounce of drive."

Maj. Ross E. Leety, San Diego, Calif., an advisory officer with a Korean regiment, explained that many newly-trained non-commissioned officers were killed in battle while trying to set an example to their men.

"We had one class of 14 which had just completed training and went right into battle," he said. "Almost all of them were killed."

Leety said his most difficult problem was to teach Korean officers and non-coms the use and co-ordination of different types of weapons.

Maj. John J. McManus, Rochester, N.Y., another regimental advisory officer, cited a case in point:

"Last night that Korean heavy mortar section down the road poked shells all night long, just as fast as they could. When I asked the Korean officer in charge whether he was shelling the enemy, he replied, 'No, this is just harassing and interdiction fire.'

"Just imagine," McManus said, "throwing those shells all night long at $40 per round. They must have spent $100,000 in one night and we don't know if they even killed one Communist.

HERE THERE and EVERYWHERE

RAZED—Fire which razed the Princeton Trail Sawmills plant at Hope Wednesday caused damage estimated at $75,000.

Lumber stocks in the yard were not damaged.

POLIO—The seventh case of polio in the Dawson Creek area was reported Wednesday as a seven-year-old girl was admitted to the hospital with the disease.

Other cases were from Pouce Coupe, Farmington and Fort St. John.

PIONEERS—Canadian movies, which have been confined to short subjects, educational films and propaganda pieces in the main, received a pat on the back yesterday from Immigration Minister Harris and Leonard W. Brockington, president of the J. Arthur Rank organization in Canada.

Both spoke at a 25th anniversary dinner honoring Canadian film pioneers. Mr. Harris told of the importance the immigration department places on film strips. Films showing the advantages of Canada have encouraged immigrants to come here.

Mr. Brockington, too, referred to early immigration films and said that one made in the early 1900s was partly responsible for his decision to come to Canada.

CONQUEST — In New York, Margaret Sullavan returned to the stage Wednesday night at the Morosco Theatre in her first flesh-and-blood performance in eight years and gave a memorable performance.

In the role of Hester Collyer in the Terence Rattigan play, "The Deep Blue Sea," Miss Sullavan lifted what might have been a minor play into one of the most enchanting dramas of the season.

Miss Sullavan played the role of a woman desperately in love with a younger man for whom she has left her husband, a man of distinction. She is very much in love with the younger man, but to him she is only another conquest.

VISIT—The British fast frigate H.M.S. Rocket will visit Halifax Nov. 16 to 24.

The ship, the latest in British anti-submarine vessels, has been visiting U.S. ports. Its arrival in Halifax is "awaited with particular interest by officers of the Royal Canadian Navy because she incorporates many of the new ideas now being incorporated into the new Canadian escort vessels."

The frigate is a former Rotherham class fleet destroyer which was stripped to the hull and redesigned soley with a view to coping with swift, post-war submarines.

DELIGHTED—In New York, Gen. Douglas MacArthur commented to an aide Wednesday he was "delighted" at the Republican victory but made no direct mention of Republican President-elect Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower.

Col. Sidney L. Huff said he asked Gen. MacArthur for comment on the election. "As a staunch Republican I am delighted at the sweeping Republican victory," Huff said MacArthur declared. "It will be good not only for our own country but for the world."

Maze Returns After Holiday In Homeland

SIR FREDERICK MAZE

Back from a three months' visit to his brother in Ireland, land of his birth, is Sir Frederick Maze, K.C.M.G., K.B.E., former Inspector-General of China's Maritime Customs.

He entered China's customs service under the Imperial regime in 1891, and in 1904 was made a mandarin by the Emperor. He has been, since then, adviser to the Chinese Board of National Reconstruction and member of the Monetary Advisory Council. He left the service prior to the advent of the Communists in government. His home is at 1121 Beach Drive.

Russia Warns U.S. Responsible For Incidents Over Blockade

MOSCOW, Nov. 6 (UP)—Russia served notice Wednesday night it will hold the U.S. responsible for any incidents resulting from the establishment of a Korean "sea defense zone" extending within 35 miles of Soviet waters.

The Soviet government announced it had sent a note to the U.S. charging that Gen. Mark W. Clark's September 27 designation of the defense zone constituted "a new act of aggression in the Far East."

The note said Russia refused to recognize the zone as legal.

"This (zone) . . . proved once again that the U.S. government is not only unwilling to stop the war in Korea, but is following the path of new acts of aggression," the note said.

"The establishment of this zone represents a violation of the freedom of the sea, trade in the open sea, and also a violation of the rights of the U.S.S.R. and other states.

"The Soviet government . . . lays upon the U.S. government responsibility for the consequences of this new aggressive act and for any damage that might be caused to the interests of the U.S.S.R."

Clark proclaimed the "sea defense zone" in his capacity as supreme United Nations commander for Korea. He said it would extend completely around the Korean Peninsula, beginning at the 42nd parallel on the east coast and extending well south of Korea's southern tip.

The 42nd Parallel crosses the Korean east coast about 35 miles south of the Soviet Siberian frontier and 130 miles from the Soviet base of Vladivostok. On the west coast, the zone extends north to the Manchurian border of Red China.

Clark's headquarters said the zone was established to prevent attacks on the U.N.-held Korean coast, protect Allied communications lines, prevent the smuggling of contraband and Communist agents behind the U.N. lines, and to isolate islands off the south coast on which Communist war prisoners are held.

The Soviet protest note contended press reports said any ship which entered the zone would be subjected to search, irrespective of its nationality. It said the zone included not only Korean territorial waters, but also "considerable areas of open sea."

It also recalled the Soviets had protested the U.S. government's original declaration of a limited blockade of the Korean coast in July, 1950.

Two British Tars Freed By Japanese

TOKYO, Nov. 6 (Reuters)—A Japanese court today freed two British sailors who had been jailed for 2½ years for stealing a taxi and robbing its driver of 1,700 yen (about $4.75). They had served four months of their sentence.

The Osaka high court reaffirmed the men's guilt, upheld Japan's jurisdiction in the case (which had been disputed by Britain) and approved the original sentence. It then suspended the sentence for three years.

The sailors, Peter Stenner and Derek Smith, were taken under escort to the British base at Kure where they will face a court of inquiry.

International Chamber To Convene in Vienna

MONTREAL, Nov. 6 (CP)—D. P. Cruickshank, president of the Canadian council, International Chamber of Commerce, announced today the chamber's 14th congress will be held in Vienna next May 18 to 23. The congress meets every two years. It was held in Quebec in 1949 and in Lisbon, Portugal, at the last gathering in 1951.

When Old Friends Quarrel

IN A HARASSED WORLD NOTHing is more disturbing at the moment than the clear threat to the historic friendship between France and the United States, a friendship which goes back to the days of the American Revolution.

French impatience with American policy in Europe was indicated in discreet diplomatic language a few days ago by Premier Pinay when he refused to receive a note from the United States government because it seemed to tell the French government how to manage its financial affairs. Then M. Herriot, the Grand Old Man of French politics and the personification of the European spirit, opposed the European Army agreement, now under study by the French parliament.

But something much more revealing is the latest speech by President Vincent Auriol, who evidently has been wounded to the quick by the manners if not the policy of the United States. As a warning against a grave breach in the family of the free world M. Auriol's statement deserves careful and patient consideration, especially in Washington.

France, says its president, is "deeply offended" and "profoundly hurt" to find that her sacrifices in the present world struggle, her bloodletting in two world wars, her gigantic costs in the defense of Southeast Asia are not appreciated by her allies, that her firm resistance to communism at home and abroad is doubted, that her colonial policies in North Africa are challenged in the United Nations.

He demands a fairer sharing of defense burdens. "We ask," he says, "that in the concert of peoples . . . the rights of each shall be equal and the costs equitably shared among all in proportion to sacrifices undergone yesterday and today for the common cause, for liberty and justice." And France rejects any attack on its colonial policies in the United Nations from such nations as Russia which, extinguishing all human rights at home, pretends to be outraged by the mistreatment of human beings everywhere else.

This is a very serious business and it cannot be attributed merely to the domestic difficulties of a French government seeking votes by appealing to French pride. France, for all its internal troubles, remains the core of democracy in Europe. Without its full co-operation the project of European defense is impossible. Without its friendship the United States will seek in vain for a trans-Atlantic unity. Without French participation the European Army, one of the pillars of the whole North Atlantic defense community, will collapse.

In all this Russia sees a new chance to drive a wedge through the centre of the free world and as usual uses its hammer night and day. France's hurt and anger will be exploited for all it is worth in the great Communist campaign of hatred against the United States.

Perhaps American diplomats have unwittingly been guilty of bad manners in dealing with France. But the present trouble probably stems more from the recent confusion in American politics, inevitable during an election campaign.

In such a period the moral force of the United States in Europe was bound to decline temporarily since the Europeans could not foresee the shape of the new administration in Washington while the existing administration cannot bind its successor to any policy. This hiatus will not end until the new administration is installed.

Once it is in office its first and probably its most urgent task will be to close this latest breach between the new world and the old without delay.

The issues here are not French pride or American blunders, if such blunders have been committed, but nothing less than the stability of the free world and the risk of a fatal schism. The question is not whether this or that government shall govern in the United States or in France, whether this or that policy shall be enforced but whether Stalin is right in his basic assumption that the democracies can never live amicably together.

A Centre for Boys in Uniform

MAYOR HARRISON HAS APpointed three aldermen to a special committee to explore the possibility of establishing a servicemen's centre here. The members of the committee, the mayor, and the services are deeply aware of the need for such an establishment.

They know that there are 5,000 men in uniform in this region. They know the benefits that come to the city from a $30 million a year maintenance account for the services and civilian dockyord workers. They know that many of the servicemen are not far out of their teens, that they are a long way from home and that they require some centre in which to meet, mingle, read, write letters and enjoy a social life that is not dressed in a uniform.

The experience of the hostels and canteens operated here during the war years furnishes a blueprint of the type of service these young men should have. They need quarters where they can purchase a bed or a meal at minimum prices.

There are limited facilities for them in Victoria. The Y.M.C.A. does its best to assist them, but space is at a premium there. Robert House is in the process of demolition and other quarters once available to them are no longer operating.

For two practical reasons this city should endorse efforts to find a satisfactory location for them. Without such accommodation they can't help loitering on the streets when they run short of money. As young men a long way from home—young men, incidentally, who have enlisted to serve their country—they deserve a centre that will meet their leisure requirements.

Sane Attitude on Fireworks

BY STANDARDS OF AN EARLIER generation, it is doubtful if this year's Halloween vandalism would have been considered excessive. Those instances which did occur, on the other hand, have persuaded police commissioners that the so-called celebrations, other than supervised events, tended to get out of hand.

In consequence, the commission has recommended to the city council that sale of fireworks be prohibited in future unless special permits are taken out for their purchase. That means, as we understand it, that only organizers of supervised Halloween events will be permitted to buy them.

The commission's attitude is reasonable enough in view of the way in which use of fire-crackers and bombs has been abused. When they are thrown into the open windows of passing cars or are pushed through the letter-slots in doors they create hazards which should not be tolerated.

Inevitably there are morons who go to extremes in the use of explosives. But even without them, irresponsible children can unwittingly cause damage through sheer heedlessness in their handling of fire-crackers. Injuries and burns suffered last Friday night prove the point.

By banning the unrestricted purchase of fireworks, the commissioners may conceivably be saving Halloween for those who should enjoy it—the small children who can gather at organized bonfires and parties. If observance of the evening fete is allowed to continue as an excuse for hooliganism, Halloween itself must eventually fall into complete disrepute and be proscribed.

Gathering at the Fountain

THE WINDSOR STAR NOTES with some concern that the city of Ottawa is urging large businesses to establish their head offices in the Canadian capital, on the grounds that increasing government regulation of commerce and industry makes advisable a ready liaison between company officials and government departments.

The Ottawa groups who use this argument in seeking to build up their city are taking advantage of a definite trend. It is one that government itself is not necessarily interested in fostering, although the genus bureaucrat flourishes in this age. But each new law or regulation affecting the production, distribution and consumption of goods requires someone to see that it is enforced, to explain it, advertise it and administer it. He soon needs assistants and clerks —and a new government office is born.

To that office must come those who are affected by the law, to secure interpretations, to correct anomalies, to solicit co-operation. The trend is gathering momentum, with little prospect of reversal. Ottawa on this basis may become a much more populous city, but at great cost to the country at large.

Avalanche Made of Wood

TOO MANY LOADS ARE CRASHing from lumber and logging trucks on our highways. Fortunately, no lives have been claimed in recent accidents of this type, but if they continue at their recent frequency, someone will be killed or permanently crippled.

The layman attributes such mishaps to two dominant factors. He believes that they are caused either by improper or insecure loading of the trucks, or by lack of caution in their operation. In either case there are regulations covering the points. If they were observed as they should be, accidents of this nature would be infrequent.

The remedy for the present trend seems obvious. The regulations should be enforced so rigidly that no operator could afford to ignore them. Laxity anywhere along the line is an invitation to disaster.

LOOSE ENDS

The President

By BRUCE HUTCHISON

THE FASCINATING fact in the American election is not General Eisenhower's victory but everybody's doubt about it in advance. The trouble here, as always in great elections, is the confusion of the campaign which, in seeking to clarify everything, leaves nothing clear.

Hutchison

Last January, I remember, a group of the best politicial minds in Ottawa held an informal caucus in the Chateau Laurier to discuss politics and various items of bottled goods. And after all the experts had debated until far into the night the chances of General Eisenhower's nomination (which was by no means assured then) and the subsequent chances of his election, a wise old politician from Montreal remarked: "Forget all this hair-splitting. We all know that nothing but death can prevent Eisenhower from being the next President."

That was obvious then, but the obvious soon became lost in the rush of the election campaign. The trees got in the way of the forest, as they usually do. The confident prophets of spring began to hedge their bets in November.

THE QUIET VOTER

The proper time to judge an election is at least six months in advance before the politicians, the poll takers and the newspapers can obscure it by expert explanation. And it is probably true, as Jim Farley, a master politician, says, that campaigns have very little effect on elections anyway when the quiet, anonymous ordinary voter has already made up his mind and is little moved by millions of dollars worth of ballyhoo—a rule which we might wisely remember in judging the prospects of our own Canadian election next year. Very likely it is settled now.

A Canadian should not be accused of meddling in his neighbor's business if he deplores the prodigal waste of the American political system.

In the last few months the United States discovered a statesman of first rank in Governor Stevenson. During the present generation at least no presidential candidate has remotely approached the level of Mr. Stevenson's speeches. They were important not merely as oratory but as revealing an unequalled knowledge of the history, scholarship and philosophy of politics. You might not agree with Mr. Stevenson but no one could doubt the quality of his mind.

Yet this man, a major national asset, is cast aside as Wendell Willkie was cast aside after 1940. This is part of the price to be paid for the American constitutional system.

THE MAN KILLER

Under the British system Mr. Stevenson would lead the opposition in parliament, he would greatly affect all public business, he would be the second most powerful man in the realm and would provide an ever-ready alternative to the existing government. Under the American system all his talent is lost to the public use.

I don't doubt that Mr. Stevenson is privately relieved that he does not have to undertake the presidency, surely the most terrible penalty which the law can ever inflict on an innocent man; for the American system, by concentrating so much power in a single individual, instead of dividing it among a cabinet, has converted the presidency into a burden almost beyond the endurance of human flesh and blood.

But if any man is mercifully saved from this lethal eminence the waste of talent in such a case as Mr. Stevenson's is surely more than the richest nation can afford.

MAKING A PRESIDENT

To make a great President a man must have brains and knowledge, as General Eisenhower undoubtedly has in rich measure. He must also have health. And assuredly he will never seek the presidency in the first place unless he has developed a powerful and sincere egotism or otherwise he would shrink from such responsibility.

On the other hand, if a President has too much imagination the job is almost certain to kill him. The presidency killed Woodrow Wilson because he could imagine the consequences of his acts upon all mankind. In the end the strain of that understanding also killed Roosevelt.

Whereas Mr. Truman, with all his virtues, is obviously not an imaginative man, he made the decision of Korea, perhaps the largest single decision of any President since Lincoln, without losing a night's sleep; he employed the bomb without a moment's hesitation and he will end nearly eight years of perpetual crisis and unbroken toil quite unscarred, as healthy as a trout. He has been saved by his limited imagination.

We have yet to see the full character of his successor. The world thinks it knows Eisenhower. No one really knows a President until he has been some time in office. Many Presidents, notably Franklin Roosevelt (whom Mr. Walter Lippmann called a pleasant young man with no qualities of leadership but dreadfully anxious for office), turn out to be the very opposite of the public's expectations. A couple of years from now Eisenhower will appear much larger or much smaller than he appears today. Only office can ever take the measure of a statesman.

As Our Readers See It

GRATITUDE EXPRESSED

My family and I would like to express to our many friends throughout British Columbia our heartfelt gratitude and sincere appreciation for the overwhelming tributes which have been given in flowers, letters and press reviews in memory of my dear husband. Such kind expressions of respect and sincere admiration have made us all realize so well our common loss. The warm wealth of sympathy and understanding which has been shown us has greatly helped to strengthen and cheer us in our sudden bereavement.

CANNED DEFENSE

The attitude of our Canadian government towards Great Britain, in recent months, seems to have changed from Olympian detachment to intense irritation. Britain's heroic effort to maintain her position as a world power leaves them cold and they feel she should accept a minor role in world affairs and devote her energies to earning Canadian dollars.

The processors and distributors of our Canadian products, charging all the traffic would bear, have become tycoons at home and have priced us out of world markets abroad. Press reports have the government now offering canned pork to foreign buyers at a cent a pound, with no takers, while Canadian ministers are off on a witch hunt to South America seeking customers for our huge surpluses.

For the moment, due to defense needs, the American market is open to us for selected raw materials. So, for the moment, we are rich and prosperous, and our government, like our dollar, is riding high. But the basic facts of our national life are unchanged. We are a small nation in a great land which we ourselves could never defend and we must live by selling our surplus food and products abroad.

We can either be an important partner in the Commonwealth by accepting its risks and responsbilities, or we can be a part or appendage of the United States. We cannot stand alone.

Throughout our existence as a nation, the British have been our best and most reliable customers. Now they are poor, not through waste and extravagance as our government believes, but because in two world wars they spent all their wealth and all their credit to fight the battle of freedom for themselves and the Commonwealth of which we were a part.

The Americans are smart and have learned to value Britain and the Commonwealth as partners and allies. Former Canadian governments did much to help the mother country but the struggle, won for the tough and resolute British people, is long and hard.

Now, the threat of another war has arisen and again Britain is expected to hold the line. She needs defense material from us to rearm, but our government, while talking loudly about gifts, wants strictly hard cash for the goods, and if Britain has nothing left over to buy our surplus food that is too bad for her.

If war comes, it might be too bad for us, because, if Britain goes, all Europe goes with her. Doubtless we can defend ourselves with cans of pork and salmon, because then, without any doubt, we shall be the front line.

(Mrs.) MARY H. O'BRIEN.
1021 Iris Avenue, Victoria, B.C.

ANIMAL CARE

On behalf of our society I would like to express our appreciation of Mr. Loudon's report on the recent visit of the Zoo Train to Victoria, and of Mr. Tobin's article on caged animals in traveling shows. Also of the action of the Times in printing them. It is encouraging to us to know that there is a newspaper which realizes the cruelty of such exhibitions and the misery of the lives of the animals, which have sometimes been referred to as "the living dead."

It is the aim of this society to work towards bringing nearer the day when people will have become so humanely educated that shows of this kind will pass out of existence because there will be no one to patronize them.

The views of Capt. James Barr, as expressed in his letter to the Times, were in complete accord with ours.

G. M. WEBSTER.
Honorary Secretary Performing and Caged Animals' Protection League, Vancouver, B.C.

LOW-DOWN ON GRASS ROOTS

When our new health minister makes his "grass roots" tour, there will doubtless be many people anxious to tell him things about B.C.H.I.S.

We could give him the address of one victim whose case is very well known to us. Entering a local hospital on July 14, this man paid his $35 co-insurance, believing that his hospital expenses were then covered for 12 months.

After August 9 hospital bills began to arrive, based on the $1 per day charge. By the time he left hospital, the bill totalled $63. This is according to the law, states the commissioner. Perusal of the regulations leaves us in doubt, but one fact remains crystal clear, the claims made by our pious politicians about the wonderful $1 per day scheme are pure humbug.

The man for whom we speak is an hourly paid wage earner, he cannot write thousand dollar cheques or drop $100 bills into campaign funds. To be dangerously ill is bad enough, but when on top of the pain is loaded this slick example of double talk, plus the cost of surgery and appliances, not only Mr. Martin, but all of us should find out why a scheme that was intended to be humanitarian is rapidly becoming strictly a matter of cost accounting.

Reason In the Madness

By WALTER LIPPMANN
From Washington

THE OTHER day I found myself insisting to a visitor from abroad that an American election is a whole lot better than it sounds. He did not think so. There were no clearly defined issues which were being debated, he said, and moreover, as the campaign went on and on, everyone seemed to be getting more and more vehement about less and less.

Lippmann

That, I admitted, was quite true. But he was mistaken, I argued, in thinking that this was the defect of the American system. On the contrary this was its enormous virtue. In the tremendous uproar of the primaries, the conventions and the election campaign, the system works toward the reduction rather than the aggravation of the differences between the parties.

It is not an elegant process. It does not sound intelligent when you listen to it. Much of it is tiresome, annoying and embarrassing. But since no one invented it, since it has grown up unintentionally out of their experience, Americans may say without boasting that it is one of their greatest blessings.

What is unique about the American political system is that here the principles and institutions of freedom and democracy have been made to work on a continental scale. There are countries where the liberties of the individual are more securely protected than they are here. There are countries where the government is more efficient, where it is more honest, where it is more truly representative.

But on the other hand, there has as yet been no other country in the history of the world where so many people, so diverse in their origins and in their interests, have on so vast a territory governed themselves so long and preserved their freedom. No other nation of comparable size on a land of comparable extent has as yet succeeded in maintaining a government based on free elections and in a society which respects the rights of men.

VAST AND FREE

This is the American achievement—to have shown that the principles of a free society can be made to work in a great society.

This is not something that can be taken for granted—that so vast a country can be kept free under one government. That is why our bigness and our size, which we boast so much, too much about, are also our pre-occupation and our worry.

We have had a civil war, which has left an indelible mark upon the American mind, and the problem of union, over and above the problems of democracy and of freedom, is never entirely settled and forgotten among us.

The American political system, as it works in the primaries and the conventions and the election campaign, is addressed—not by intention but empirically—to the problem of the union. We have developed out of our experience a process by which the conflicts and diversities of sections, of classes and sects are assuaged and mollified, are purged and cooled, so that the nation can live with them and the government can be carried on.

That, said I to my helpless, astounded and bewildered guest, is the reason in the madness you have been seeing.

Backfired

New York Times

The Communist strategy in regard to overseas Chinese has obviously backfired. That backfire can be a major factor in the future. The attitude of the overseas Chinese can offer a worldwide opposition to Communism and to all that Peiping stands for. It can be a long-range element in the ultimate victory of the free world.

Ups and Downs

By BRIAN TOBIN

"IT'S surprising," said the Elevator Man, "what a person will suffer in order to gain an objective. I don't suppose there's a more unpleasant feeling than starving, but many a gal has endured all its tortures in order to reduce her waist to a size that will take a man's arm. The Boyd gang dieted in prison, they say, so they'd be small enough to get out through the window bars. If the urge is great enough, it makes the suffering seem small. Anybody would cut a finger to avoid a broken arm. Or shrink a stomach to avoid a stretched neck. Temporary unhappiness, as a way of winning permanent happiness, is an argument as old as man himself. Going up!

Tobin

"The trouble is," said the Elevator Man, "some folks get things twisted. They begin to think that the only way to win happiness is to endure unhappiness. They subject themselves to unneeded ills in hopes it will make them healthy tomorrow. They impose unnecessary hardships on themselves with the idea that this will buy them more lasting pleasure. But the mistake is this. When you deliberately look for misery, you're only practicing being miserable. If you do it too much you'll become really good at it. You won't know happiness when you see it. You'll be too busy washing the bottles to taste the champagne. Lower main!

"Some folks," said the Elevator Man, "are so badly out of condition they ought to go in training for happiness. Like the fat girls and the Boyd gang they should prepare themselves for the job ahead. But they shouldn't do it by avoiding all traces of the thing they're aiming at. They should do like that fella the two wives were talking about. 'What's come over your 'usband, Mrs. Boggs?' says one woman. ''E does nothing but sit and brood on the doorstep with 'is chin in 'is 'ands.' ''E ain't brooding,' says Mrs. Boggs. ''E's just practicing for the local chess tournament.'"

$750,000 Needed for Wing At Christ Church Cathedral

Building committee of Christ Church Cathedral announced today $750,000 is required to complete the edifice.

The committee will meet Nov. 14 to discuss final plans. The group is composed mainly of church wardens and members of the diocese executive.

Planned is an eastern extension from the existing nave to provide for a choir and sanctuary with a chapel, sacristy and vestries.

B.C. Studying Education Bill Share Formula

But Plan Not Ready For Next Session

A new formula for sharing of education costs in British Columbia will not be worked out in time for presentation to the Legislature next spring, Education Minister Tilly Rolston said Wednesday.

The controversial school cost problem was discussed at length at a meeting Wednesday afternoon between the minister and representatives of the B.C. Parent-Teacher Federation, School Trustees' Association, B.C. Teachers' Federation, Federation of Agriculture and the Union of B.C. Municipalities.

Delegates to the conference said the government "is fully appraised of all angles of the problem," and hoped for an eventual solution.

Mrs. Rolston said the talks had helped clear the air.

Inequitable distribution of education costs is a long-standing problem in this province.

Washington State Falls To G.O.P.

SEATTLE, Nov. 6 (AP).—Gov. Arthur B. Langlie was re-elected to an unprecedented third term as governor of Washington State Tuesday. His Republican running mates in lower offices, from lieutenant-governor down, also scored sweeping victories.

Harry P. Cain, running for the office of senator, was defeated, as was former band leader Victor Meyers, who had been lieutenant-governor of the state since he was elected in 1933 on what began as a "gag" election platform.

BALTIMORE, Md., Nov. 6 (CP)—Whittaker Chambers is in hospital here after having suffered a heart attack Monday, it was disclosed today. Chambers, self-identified as a former courier for Communist spies, figured in the now-famous Alger Hiss case. Hiss, a former state department aide, now is serving a five-year sentence for denying that he was a Communist. He was convicted largely on the evidence of Chambers, a former magazine editor.

Power Commission's Chief Warns Island Rationing May Be Needed

Early decision by the provincial government on the B.C. Power Commission's proposal to dam Buttle Lake was asked at a meeting of the Junior Chamber of Commerce here Wednesday.

The Joycees heard a talk by S. R. Weston, commission chairman, on Vancouver Island electric power resources.

He said that a shortage of power on the Island is likely in the winter of 1954-55 in the event of low natural water run-off in either of these years.

This may force rationing of power to Island industry, he contended.

"There must be greater water storage or there will be severe cutbacks in electricity," Mr. Weston warned.

Outlining the Island's power plant pattern, Mr. Weston claimed that "even using all available sources we will have to draw on steam plants within 10 or 15 years."

As an alternative site to Buttle Lake, the commission chairman said that a dam could be built at a point about two miles below Upper Campbell Lake to create a water storage centre.

"But such a dam would have to be 120 feet high," he said, "whereas Buttle Lake dam would only have to be 25 feet high."

Mr. Weston explained that it is still necessary to obtain a provincial government order-in-council before proceeding with the Buttle Lake dam.

The Jaycees adopted a motion against taking sides on the Buttle Lake issue at this time. But they voted to write Premier Bennett asking early consideration of the B.C. Power Commission's application for a license to dam Buttle Lake.

C.P.R. Offers Scholarships At McGill for Employees

Two scholarships to McGill University will again be offered this year to employees of the Canadian Pacific Railway who are under the age of 21 and to sons and daughters of employees.

Announcement was made today by N. R. Crump, vice-president of the C.P.R.

Applications for certificates to enter the competition are to be made to G. A. Smyth, superintendent of pensions and staff registrar for the Canadian Pacific Railway at Montreal.

Additional information may be had from T. H. Mathews, registrar at McGill University. Certificate holders must apply at the university before July 1, 1953.

Eighty-seven scholarships have been awarded by the company since the plan was inaugurated in 1905.

The scholarships will be awarded upon recommendation of the university scholarships committee, based upon matriculation results, the candidate's school record and eligibility to enter the university.

They will cover a period of not more than six years, renewable from year to year.

Civil, chemical, mechanical and electrical engineering, in addition to arts, architecture, science and commerce are the courses offered for men and women, while there is a course on household science for women only at the MacDonald College.

Border Firing Caused By Wandering Pigs

ISTANBUL, Turkey, Nov. 6 (AP)—An army statement today said a 30-minute exchange of fire between Turkish and Bulgarian soldiers on the frontier Tuesday was set off by some wandering pigs.

The statement said Turkish troops opened fire in the direction of the Bulgarian frontier when they heard suspicious "noises." In the morning the soldiers found the dead pigs. Prior to the army explanation, some Turkish newspapers had called for retaliatory measures.

2 Escape Injury After Halibut Boat Burns

PRINCE RUPERT, Nov. 6 (BUP).—The American halibut boat Kawateu caught fire and sank in Grenville Channel off the northern British Columbia coast but two men aboard escaped injury.

Cecil Hall, captain of the sunken vessel, and crewman Jim Hennessy said they thought a gasoline explosion caused the blaze Tuesday night.

The men were taken to Prince Rupert by another seiner. The Kawateu was en route to Seattle, Wash., at the time.

IKE JUST ONE OF THE BOYS

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Nov. 6 (UP)—A chapter of the National Bald-Headed Club took note today of the election victory of "one of our boys."

Russell S. Ackerman, secretary of Minneapolis Bald Pates No. 2, said Dwight D. Eisenhower was an honorary member of the club and had been appointed a delegate to the national convention Saturday at St. Cloud, Minn.

Veterans Will Hold Armistice Ceremony

Annual dinner and church parade of Victoria's 31st Alberta Battalion branch will be held this week-end in conjunction with Armistice remembrance ceremonies.

The dinner will be held Saturday night at 6.30 in the Strathcona Hotel. Health Minister Eric Martin will be the chief speaker.

Martin W. Dawson is president-elect; Geoffrey Matthews, the retiring president. Church parade will be Sunday evening at St. John's Anglican Church.

New York Up

NEW YORK, Nov. 6 (AP)—A brief rally in the stock market sparked by motors today turned aside a lower tendency throughout the list.

The motors, with considerable help from rails, were ahead by fractions to between one and two points.

The remainder of the market displayed gains almost as good. On the downside, however, were many losers, usually in the fractions.

Volume came to around 1,250,000.

Higher were Atlantic Coast Line, Southern California, Edison, Du Pont, Westinghouse Electric, Amerada Petroleum, Bethlehem Steel, General Motors, Philco and Goodyear.

Canadian issues were mixed. International Nickel and Distillers Seagram both dropped ¼, Dome Mines slipped ⅛, and Canadian Pacific advanced ⅛. Hiram Walker was unchanged and McIntyre was not quoted.

On the curb, Lake Shore and Giant Yellowknife each gained ⅛; Royalite Oil slipped ⅛.

Toronto Decline

TORONTO, Nov. 6 (CP)—Prices continued to decline today in slow trading toward the stock market's close.

Western oils led the losses with a drop of more than two and one-half points on the exchange's index after losing ground throughout the session.

Volume for the session was expected to reach 1,500,000 shares.

Western oil losses outnumbered gains by more than 20 to one as losses ranged to about 50 cents. Souris Valley and Rio Tinto drew some support but Dome Exploration, Federated and New Superior slipped.

In base metals higher-priced issues led the decline and Consolidated Smelters lost more than $1 toward the close. Silver Miller slipped in active trading.

Industrials weakened as papers, utilities and refining oils retreated on a broad front. Foods were strong and banks showed strength but textiles and miscellaneous industrials slipped.

Golds traded lightly for a general loss in all groups. Seniors weakened and junior producers showed a majority of small losses. Holding companies traded lower.

Montreal Loses

MONTREAL, Nov. 6 (CP)—Losses were in a majority late today on the stock exchange and curb market.

Most prices backed down only fractions. The only major movement was the point drop of Dominion Bridge to 79.

Steels, senior metals and senior oils showed the most declines as nearly all issues in these sections fell fractions. Papers, beverages and carriers were also off a shade. Banks and miscellaneous industrials were mixed.

Mines showed a broad list of losses ranging to about 20 cents. Western oils were also lower but in a narrow range. Bailey was a feature as it dropped 25 cents to $5.50.

Vancouver Dips

VANCOUVER, Nov. 6, Noon—Stocks showed reaction to Wednesday's upsurge with moderate declines in most sections of the market at Vancouver exchange in early trade today.

Western oils, base metals, golds and industrials posed a small majority of losses for the session.

In the oils, Pacific Pete was off ¼ at $10½; Calmont won 5 to $1.25.

In the mines, Quatsino traded at 59 cents; Western Uranium $4.75, off 5, and Pacific Nickel 79 cents, off 11.

London Lower

LONDON, Nov. 6 (Reuters)—The stock market was affected today by uncertainty in Wall Street.

Under the lead of international and dollar stocks there was a tendency to lower prices.

Gilt-edged issues turned slightly downwards. Industrials were dull.

Oils fell away throughout the day and lost substantial amounts. Shippings also declined.

Easier conditions prevailed in foreign bonds. By the close, Japanese had staged a partial recovery but Germans and South Americans were heavy.

Coppers bore the brunt of the liquidation among mines but selling interest suddenly switched to kaffirs when Paris was seen offering her favorites. Diamonds also suffered a reverse through a similar action.

LONDON, Nov. 6 (AP)—Stock closings: Babcock & Wilcox 67s 6d. Boots Pure Drug 19s 6d. Canadian Pacific 860. Central Mining £1 11/16. Consolidated Goldfields 42s. Courtaulds 36s. Oil Line Local Boost

By BURKE CAHILL, Times Business Editor

A Victoria businessman is looking forward eagerly to the day when oil from the booming Alberta fields flows to the B.C. coast via the vast $85,000,000 Trans-Mountain pipeline now under construction.

Cahill

He is Ford Bond, cheerful, hustling manager of Rockgas (Victoria) Ltd., whose firm distributes propane gas as a domestic fuel in this area.

Business is booming, he reports, with sales up 192 per cent in the past month. His firm is putting a new 1,800-gallon tank car on the road in three weeks to handle the increased demand.

He gets propane gas at present from California by tank car. Even with the cost of freight from the States he is able to deliver propane here at prices competitive enough to sell. But when oil comes to the B.C. coast he expects to knock the price of his product substantially.

Propane comes as an offshoot of oil refining operations, he explains.

OUTSIDE SOURCE

Propane supplies now come from the operations of the large-scale California oil refining industry.

The big refinery expansion program now under way in the Vancouver area is expected to be ready to cope with the first pipeline crude due next August.

Major oil firms, including Imperial, British American, Shell and Standard of B.C., are pushing vast refinery projects on the coast. These will be a ready source of local propane supply, Bond says.

Arrangements have already been completed to obtain propane gas from the oil companies, he reports.

At present propane is supplied to individual householders in cylinders. Bond's firm periodically refills the tanks.

When supply lines are fully developed in British Columbia with the advent of the oil pipeline, however, customers will be serviced more economically by using larger storage tanks and tank cars Bond explains.

The main storage centre and distribution plant of the Rockgas firm recently moved to a site at Langford, where the main unit is the 30,000-gallon storage tank.

The firm has a $125,000 annual business now but Bond is confident this will climb to a $1,000,000 as the local market is developed. He cites the tight position on propane supplies in Alberta itself, heart of the oil industry, as evidence of the terrific demand for the relatively new product.

GRAIN

WINNIPEG

WINNIPEG, Nov. 6 (CP)—Most prices firmed up near the close today on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange in response to a better tone at Chicago.

Earlier in the trade, prices generally were lower and irregular as commercial demand appeared light and offerings more liberal.

December barley was the weak spot as offerings were plentiful. Both oats and barley received support from shippers, while some export demand was indicated in barley.

Flax attracted some industrial and processor buying, while rye was picked up by American interests.

Export loadings of Canadian wheat totalled more than $2,000,000 bushels, with the United Kingdom taking 1,100,000 bushels, Republic of Ireland 300,000, Japan 170,000, Italy 315,000, and Switzerland 175,000.

Prices for class two wheat were up 1⅛ cents from yesterday, while I.W.A. prices were up one-eighth.

BOUCHER HEADING WEST TO EYE W.H.L. 'FARMS'

TORONTO, Nov. 6 (BUP) — Manager Frank Boucher, down at the mouth after another loss by his New York Rangers, set out for the west coast today to scout talent on the farm club Saskatoon Quakers and Vancouver Canucks but he wouldn't say what players he had in mind.

The Rangers, whose 4-1 loss to the Maple Leafs last night marked defeat No. 8, obviously needed new blood and Boucher was asked where he was going to find it.

"I don't know," he said, "but I hope to find out this week-end."

Saskatoon meets the Cougars here Friday night while Vancouver is at home to New Westminster. Canucks play in Victoria Saturday.

IT'S MY VIEW

By BILL WALKER, Sports Editor

An athlete is only as good as his legs. How often have you heard that one?

Yes, when those old underpinnings start to creak, neighbor, the star is reaching the end of the trail. But is he? Not while the "eye" remains.

That incalcuable co-ordination with which some great athletes are blessed extends the athlete's life—if only for a time.

It's true in hockey; it's true in baseball, and it's true in most sports.

Walker

There's no better example than hulking John Mize, the brute of a man whose "eye" as a pinch hitter was worth $15,000 to the New York Yankees this past baseball season.

"Jarrin Jawn," once the terror of the National League corps of moundsmen, wasn't good enough to fit the bill as Leo Durocher's type of ballplayer some years ago, because John's legs had gone. Never a ballet dancer around the initial cushion, John could, and still can, rock that ball a country mile.

Time may have weathered John's legs, but it hasn't affected his "eye." Given one clout, John could win you a game. That's what he was paid for. Paid well.

But it was the "eye" that paid off. Paid off well, too, for the Yanks. This the Dodgers will testify.

Lester Patrick likes to tell about Ernie Lombardi, the mountain they couldn't move out of a regular catching berth in the National League because of his "eye."

The infielders used to play in the outfield when Lombardi came to bat—at least 20 feet further back on the grass. It was safer there, because if the "schnoz" hit one to them they had all day to throw him out.

Still, Lombardi for years was a .300 hitter in the majors. Here's a case of a guy who never had the legs, only the "eye," for which he was one of the most feared men who ever waved a wagon tongue at a pitcher. Oh, he could catch some, too.

They Could Probably Do It Today, Too

In hockey there were Nels Stewart, Bill Cook and others. They could always put the puck in the net. In latter years, it got tougher because they had to work harder to get in close. But once in close they could do it.

You never lose the touch. The backchecking goes first, then the drive. But you can't take away the "eye."

* * *

Look at basketball. Art Chapman couldn't read the score in 12-inch type from centre floor, but he could spot that black rim against a square white background and knew what it stood for. The "eye" was still there.

Ollie Goldsmith was in the same category. Ollie's legs went first and with them one of the scrappiest cagers to ever help win Victoria a Canadian championship. His marksmanship never left him.

Chuck Chapman could still match baskets with the youth of today in an exhibition of spot shooting, but Chuck's legs couldn't stand the pace of today's grind.

Watch the veterans yourselves and see. They conserve their energy as they know they must. There's no unnecessary movement. Guile and cunning has replaced the effervescence of youth.

Get that one shot, that one swing, that one chance that can mean victory. Save those legs for the express moment.

Sixth Sense—the Co-ordinated 'Eye'

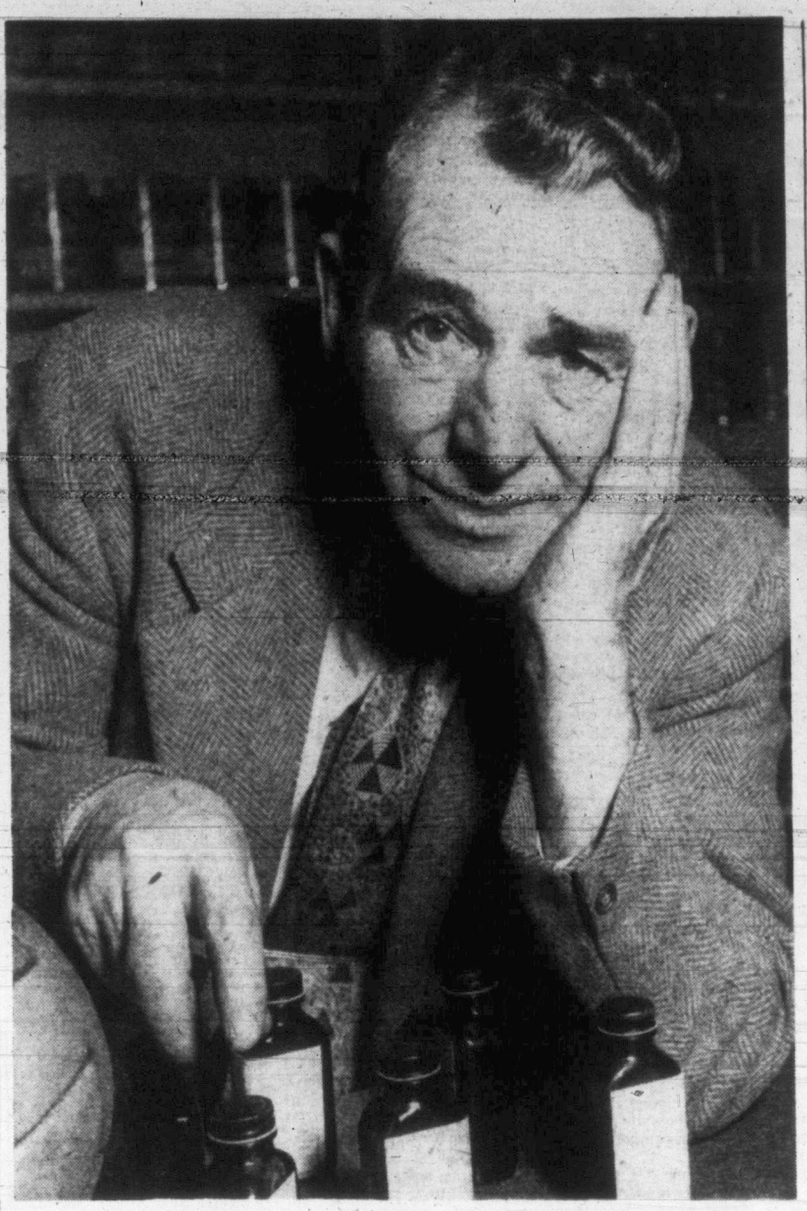
The "old sweat" knows where his success lies, from what spot he can score, from what position he can make the move that will produce a goal or a basket; that one pitch he can ride a mile.

They seem to acquire a sixth sense—the veterans. Yes, the real stars stick it out when their legs are gone—for a time. The list is endless. Check back over your own favorites; you'll see.

It's the same in the minors as the majors in any branch of sport, except that those at the top have reached the peak because of other attributes.

The legs may be the indicators to the end of a career, but you can never take away the "eye," but always with its relative value to the team and the sport.

All of which causes Lester Patrick to quote: "And some players spend their entire hockey careers trying to drive the puck through a goalkeepers' pads."



Professor's Eade's Painful Permutation

Those bottles contain neither headache pills nor alcoholic spirits, but you couldn't blame George Eade if he took to either. The bottles represent those members of Eade's Victoria United who are not limping or in hospital. With stars Wally Milligan and John Pickburn on the injured list, Eade attempts to deploy his survivors to form as strong a line-up as possible for Saturday's crucial match with St. Andrews. A victory could put United back in first place in the Coast Soccer League standings. United meets the Scots at Athletic Park

Bombers Dissolve Quaker Principles

Royals Earn Late Tie With Rockets

New Westminster 4, Tacoma 4
Seattle 6, Saskatoon 1

One of the toughest targets in the Western Hockey League was just a milk run for Seattle Bombers Wednesday night as they knocked the fight out of Saskatoon Quakers with a string of direct hits.

Rudy Filion, Gerry Foley and George Homenuke were the Seattle bombadiers, each scoring two goals to carry Bombers to a 6-1 win over Quakers.

The drubbing—a surprise after Quakers' 7-3 victory over Vancouver Canucks the previous night—prevented Saskatoon from breaking out of their current first-place deadlock with Vancouver.

New Westminster Royals rallied late to earn a 4-4 draw with Tacoma Rockets, Royals' first tie game in 12 contests this season.

Veteran centre Ken Ullyot scored two third-period goals as Royals rallied on the brink of defeat and even pressed in the final minutes in hopes of routing Rockets, before only 1,800 fans.

The Seattle contest was Quakers' second game of their first coast invasion this season. They were saved from a shutout when George Senick scored in the second period.

BIG LEAD

Bombers rollicked to a 3-0 lead in the first period and scored twice in the third after splitting two goals in the middle frame.

The win put Seattle in third place with 14 points, a single point ahead of Royals and three points behind Quakers.

Stan Maxwell was the other New Westminster scorer with a brace. Tacoma marksmen were Wayne Brown with two, Dave Wall and Barton Bradley.

Rockets netted two easy goals in the ragged first period and followed with another in the second before Royals came to life. The cellar-dwelling Tacomans are one point behind Edmonton Flyers.

Only one game is scheduled for tonight, Quakers vs. Rockets.

DICKENSON INJURED

Blues Really Singing Blues

Toronto 4, New York 1

Sparked by veteran Max Bentley, who fired two goals, Toronto Maple Leafs Wednesday night grabbed a 4-1 victory from a weak New York Rangers team.

The win, before 12,454 fans, moved the Leafs into a 15-point tie with the Chicago Black Hawks atop the National Hockey League. The tail-end Rangers have won only one game in 20 encounters.

The New Yorkers, already beset with injuries to key players, suffered another serious setback in the loss of left-winger Herb Dickenson. The Hamilton, Ont., product was taken to hospital before the game started after being hit in the right eye with a puck during a practice warm-up.

Hospital officials said today that the injured player had a good night and that they do not believe his sight will be permanently impaired. Wednesday night the eye was reported bleeding badly and the sight temporarily gone.

The injury came at a time when Rangers were just getting some of their casualties back in shape. Veteran goalie Chuck Rayner, who battled a tide of 31 Toronto shots, was making his first appearance of the season after an early injury.

It was also the first appearance of the season for defenseman Leo Reise and he was far off his regular form.

Bentley banged in both second-period counters, with Sid Smith and Rudy Migay getting the others. New York's lone goal was by Wally Hergesheimer.

Leafs meet Montreal Canadiens tonight, when Detroit takes on Boston Bruins.

Vets Come Fast to Hand Aces First Cage Defeat

Senior B men's basketball teams continued their habit of saving their point splurges for the last quarter Wednesday night as Veterans of France rang up 16 points in a last-period spurt to down Butler's Aces 40-30 at Victoria High School.

The loss was the first of the season for Aces and the first win for Vets.

Aces are still in first place, two points ahead of the deadlocked Vets and Chinese Students.

Vets led 10-8 at the end of the first quarter and the clubs split 12 points in the second frame. Aces crept to within one point of the Vets in the third quarter, trailing 23-24.

The Vets then went wild in the last heat while holding Aces to two field goals and three free throws.

NORTHUP HIGH

Vets' Jackie Northup led the snipers of both teams with 12 points. He was particularly deadly from the free-throw line, canning six out of seven attempts. Ronnie Benn of Aces led his club with nine points.

In the preliminary, C. & C. Taxi walked over Eaglettes 25-7 in a junior girls' game.

The cab girls pushed up 10 points in the first half while Pat Lyall's field goal provided Eaglettes' only first half points.

Line-ups follow:

Georgia Tech Accepts First Bowl Bid

NEW YORK, Nov. 6 (AP)—The scramble for teams for the Jan. 1 football bowl spectacles was on today, with New Orleans' Sugar Bowl out in front of the pack.

Georgia Tech, unbeaten and unsurpassed at the moment as a bowl attraction, agreed to play in the Sugar Bowl Wednesday, thus becoming one of the earliest bowl-bound teams since the day classics were started. Who the Engineers, third-ranked in the Associated Press poll, will meet is anybody's guess.

The Rose Bowl at Pasadena, Calif., grand-daddy of the January spectacles, will, of course, match the Pacific Coast Conference and Big 10 champions. Dallas' Cotton Bowl will have the Southwest Conference winner as host team. But the three conference races are far from settled.

Vics End Mount View Win Skein

Victoria High School came from behind to edge Mount View 22-21 in an Inter-High School Junior Girls Basketball League contest at Mount View Wednesday.

The city girls trailed the suburbanites 14-12 at half time but put on a last-ditch rally in the final quarter to hand Mount View their first defeat of the season.

Diana Saxon topped the winners with 10 points while Bessie Graham racked up seven for the losers.

On Monday, Oak Bay trounced Esquimalt, 29-15, with Bay's Sue Burnett netting 16 points, one point more than five members of Esquimalt could tally.

CLOSES GAP ON MACKINTOSH

Senick Point Threat

Saskatoon's George Senick moved to within one point of Western Hockey League scoring leader Ian Mackintosh of Vancouver Wednesday night.

Senick notched Quaker's lone goal as they were bounced 6-1 by Seattle Bombers.

Rudy Filion and Gerry Foley of the Bombers both scored two goals and set up another pair in the same game. Filion moved up to share fourth spot with Colin Kilburn of the Cougars while Foley is right behind in fifth place with 16 points.

Packers Close Ground on V's

Kelowna Packers punched out a 3-2 victory over Penticton V's Wednesday night in a savage Okanagan Senior Amateur Hockey League encounter at Kelowna to again cut V's league-lead to three points.

V's had moved five points ahead the night before by dumping Packers 7-5 in overtime at Penticton.

At Kamloops, Vernon Canadians were swamped 7-1 by the Elks, who scored six straight goals in the second and third after Canadians potted one at 6.11 of the first period.

Hershey Tied for Second

Hershey Bears today are in a tie for second place in the American Hockey League with St. Louis, thanks to a 6-1 decision over Cleveland Barons Wednesday night.

CUP GAME TUESDAY

Tide to Meet 'Rest' In Exhibition Match

Crimson Tide, Victoria's McKechnie Cup rugby squad, will get a chance to show their goods for the first time this season on Saturday at Macdonald Park, when they meet a team comprised of players picked from other teams in the Victoria Rugby Union in an exhibition game.

The Tide has been working out this week under Coach Derek Hyde-Lay in preparation for the opening contest in the McKechnie Cup series against North Shore here on Tuesday.

University School and J.B.A.A., the two undefeated clubs in the five-team second division will clash for league supremacy at University School grounds on Saturday.

The winless Wanderers-Crusaders and Victoria College Vikings will be trying to evacuate the league basement in the other game. Playing site has not been announced. All games start at 2.30.

Civil Servants Play Hockey, Too

Queen's Printers and Lands Department jumped into a first-place tie in the Provincial Employees Hockey League this week with five points each.

Printers battled to a 3-3 draw with Hospitalization while Lands blanked Public Works, 4-0.

Youth Features Suburban Card

The younger set will reign Friday night in three Saanich and Suburban Basketball League games at Brentwood Community Hall.

First on the three-game card is a midget boys' game between Brentwood and Saanichton followed by a bantam boys' match between the same two centres.

The feature game matches Brentwood and Saanichton juvenile girls.

MOUNT VIEW SCORES UPSET; VIC HIGH IN LEAD

Bays Caught in Squeeze Play

Victoria and Mount View High Schools combined their best talents Wednesday to put the boots to Oak Bay.

Vic High's 2-1 victory over Esquimalt and Mount View's 3-1 conquest of Oak Bay knocked the Bays out of first place, allowing Vic High to ease into the leadoff position.

Oak Bay dropped into a two-way tie for second place with Mount View.

With the three teams clustered around first place and having only three games remaining on their schedules, all three clubs can be regarded as threats for the championship.

What could turn out as the most crucial game of the season will be played Monday when Oak Bay and Vic High tangle. While they are having it out, Mount View will be playing Mount Douglas, still winless after four defeats.

Turning in their best soccer of the season, Mount View raced into a 2-0 lead at the half and came through with a second-half goal to match Oak Bay's only score, sending the Bays down to their first loss of the season.

Gary Crowe soloed for Mount View's first goal and Dick Stone added the second goal when he got his head to a corner kick.

Stone upped Mount View's advantage to 3-0 halfway through the second half before Oak Bay was able to strike back.

Gene Pednault's hopes of a shutout were ended when Oak Bay halfback Bob Showers drove in a long shot for his club's only score.

All of Vic High's blessings fell on centre forward Bill Abbott. Abbott scored a goal in each half on clever individual rushes to prevent Esquimalt scoring an upset. His second goal, which proved to be the winner, came minutes after the start of the second half.

Following this score Esquimalt were awarded a penalty kick and Mark Cunningham scored.

FONTWELL, England, Nov. 6 (AP)—A dead horse—and that's official—galloped to victory in the first race at the Fontwell track Wednesday. Paid 6 to 1, too.

The animal, an eight-year-old named Crisel, was described as dead in a Jockey Club list of horses issued to tracks in the United States Wednesday.

Said a Jockey Club official: "There seems to have been a clerical error."

Fred Tired of Bill's Baseball Shenanigans

By GAYLE TALBOT

NEW YORK (CP)—The time is approaching when baseball commissioner Ford C. Frick will have to wade into the St. Louis situation and somehow resolve the running fight between Fred Saigh, aggrieved president of the Cardinals, and Bill Veeck, the man who thinks every night is Halloween.

Perhaps the endless bickering between the clubs is more funny than anything else at the moment, but the more sober elements in the game will feel relieved when the commissioner deals himself in, as he will.

From what we hear, Saigh has in fact appealed to Frick to give him some relief from the capricious Brownie president, a clear indication that Veeck is ahead on points. Saigh doesn't just want Veeck chastised for having "tampered with" pitcher Harry Brecheen in their latest flare-up—he wants Frick to slap a sort of permanent restraining order on his tormentor.

For one thing, he is almighty tired of Veeck claiming every young player upon whom he seeks waivers for farming-out purposes. Saigh is convinced that Wild Bill has no intention of promoting such players to the Browns, but just claims them for the hell of it.

That is only one of the petty annoyances to which Saigh feels he has been subjected since Veeck gained control of the Browns and became the Cardinals' landlord at Sportsman's Park.

Unless Frick does take a firm hand, the Cardinals could in time be forced out of St. Louis and the entire structure of the major leagues be jeopardized.

The Cards' lease on the park owned by the Browns has only seven more years to run, and Saigh has abandoned all thought of building a park of his own.

Under their present lease, the Cards pay Veeck only $35,000 per year for the privilege of playing their home games in this arena. One full house and they're practically paid up for the season.

Under the present contract, the Cards must pay for half of any improvements made on Sportsman's Park. Veeck had the entire park painted a tasteful brown last winter, even the seats, and he made certain that no careless painter scattered any Cardinal color about.

While he was at it, Bill also installed a series of gigantic murals of former St. Louis heroes along the walls beneath the stands. By coincidence, they were all former Brownies — nary a Card. Last time we heard, the Saigh forces were getting around this by tacking large covers over Veeck's art gallery on the days they played at "home."

Egan Suspended Indefinitely

ST. LOUIS, Nov. 6 (AP)—Pat Egan, defenseman of the Providence Reds, has been suspended indefinitely, Emory Jones, president of the American Hockey League, said Wednesday.

Egan was involved in a brawl in Cleveland last Saturday night during which he was accused of assaulting the two linesmen, Patsy Callighen and Bobby Carse.

To Manage Pirates

NEW YORK, Nov. 6 (UP)—Eddie Sawyer, former Phillies pilot, is receiving "the highest possible consideration" for the Pittsburgh managership and probably will be named to the post within the next two weeks, it was learned authoritatively today.

SAN BRUNO, Calif., Nov. 6 (BUP)—Jockey Willie Marsh of Calgary, Alta., suffered a possible fracture of the pelvis in the second race of Wednesday's card at Tanforan race track when his mount French Agent fell coming out of the gate.

Stamps 'Glad to' Let All-Star Centre Leave

CALGARY, Nov. 6 (CP)—Bill Blackburn, import centre of Calgary Stampeders for the last two seasons and selected to the Western Football Conference's first all-star team this year, will not be back with the club next season.

Stampeder president Cec Chesher revealed Tuesday that Blackburn, a rugged two-way centre from Rice Institute at Houston, Texas, asked for his release when he left Calgary recently. Chesher said he was "only too glad to give it to him."

Chesher made the announcement about Blackburn while commenting on rumored dissension among Stampeders before the conference's semi-final series against Edmonton Eskimos.

Blackburn, he said, was fined $800 during the season, $500 for his deportment during one game and $300 for general deportment and performance over the season. The Stampeder president said the fines were imposed only after repeated warnings from coach Les Lear to the effect that the centre was not playing the football he was capable of.

Esquimalt to Make Debut In Minor Soccer Circuit

Three games are on tap Saturday in the Lower Island Junior and Juvenile Football Association.

The newly-formed Esquimalt team will make its debut in the fifth division when it tangles with second-place Shepherd's Dairy at Bullen Park.

Combine pee wees will meet third-place Eagles at Central Park in a third-division match while St. Louis College will be looking for their first win when they tackle second-place Eagles in fourth division contest.

All games will start at 1 p.m.

Five games are scheduled Sunday with a junior game between Victoria Combines and Tillicum Athletic Club at Central Park at 2.30 highlighting the card.

The clubs are tied for first place in the league.

Punjab United and Victoria College will meet in a junior exhibition match at Lower Beacon Hill. Game time is 3.

Sidney Teen Town will attempt to break A.N.A.F. Vets' unbeaten record when they meet the Vets on the Sidney Memorial Park pitch in a first division game.

Eagles and Harris Cycles will attempt to break a second-place deadlock in the first division when they meet at Lower Beacon Hill at 1.

Winner of the second-division game between Delta Electric and Eagles will take over league leadership. Game will be played at Central Park at 1.

GRID FINAL NEARS

Bombers Warm Weather Isn't

WINNIPEG, Nov. 6 (CP)—Winter issue was worn Wednesday night as Winnipeg Blue Bombers worked out in preparation for their western football playoff against the Edmonton Eskimos here Saturday.

With the temperature hovering around 30 above and biting winds, coach George Trafton sent his charges through a brisk three-hour session behind locked doors at Osborne Stadium.

Only quarterback Jack Jacobs could be identified by number as he worked from the passing slot. The former Green Bay signal-caller was wearing his football jersey.

But the cold weather didn't particularly ruffle the players. The backs and ends were getting down well under the accurate passes from Jacobs, who paced Bombers to an easy 28-12 victory over Esks in the opening game of the best-of-three final at Edmonton last Saturday night.

Players and fans alike still were waiting for an indication of the weather prospects for the 3 p.m. E.S.T. battle, but the weather man refused to go out on the limb so early.

Bomber's injury list was cut to nil as rookie fullback Lorne Benson turned out for practice. Benson, a graduate of Winnipeg junior ranks, was taken to hospital on his return from Edmonton last Sunday suffering a mild concussion. He was released Tuesday.

It is doubtful, however, if Trafton will use Benson Saturday unless something happens to import fullback Ralph McAllister, the former Minnesotan who scored two touchdowns and played a great two-way game in the opener.

At Edmonton, playing coach Frankie Filchock is looking for another miracle such as carried the Eskimos past Calgary Stampeders in the western semi-final.

"If we get fired up all over again, I think we still can do it," said Filchock, who called Edmonton to score 30 points and win over the Stamps in the second game of the total-point semi-final. (Overcoming a 19-point deficit, Esks won 30-7 to take the series 42-38.)

'Flying Fish' To Fly No More

TOKYO, Nov. 6 (AP)—Swimmer Horinoshin Furuhashi, Japan's famed "Flying Fish of Fujiyama," announced his retirement from the sport Wednesday after seven years' competition.

Once considered the fastest swimmer in the world, Furuhashi faded quickly in the last several years and finished eighth in the Olympic 400-metre freestyle event at Helsinki this year.

Cage Team Suspended

WINNIPEG, Uov. 6 (BUP)—The president of the Manitoba Amateur Basketball Association says Varsity Grads of the Senior Basketball League have been suspended for participating in an exhibition game.

The Grads played the Toledo Mercury professionals in the Winnipeg Ampitheater on Tuesday night.

Dawes May Resign Post As C.O.A. President

HAMILTON, Nov. 6 (CP)—The Amateur Athletic Union of Canada starts its three-day annual meeting here today and from pre-session gossip, delegates have left the controversial subjects at home. Everything appears to be hearts and flowers with officials.

Canada's disappointing showing at the Helsinki Olympics may be brought up but the feeling appears to be that the Maple Leaf standard-bearers did okay although the country was 24th in the unofficial standing with a total of 30 points.

Its almost certain, however, that the subject of federal assistance in the form of more playing fields will be sought to help out amateur sports.

Detailed reports on the showing of track and field athletes at the summer games are expected to be given by officials who attended the world's sports festival. And it is almost a cinch that representatives from British Columbia will detail arrangements made for holding the 1954 British Empire Games at Vancouver.

It was expected that A. Sidney Dawes of Montreal, president of the Canadian Olympic Association, would be on hand but the Montrealer had advised officials he will not be around. It is strongly rumored that Dawes will resign as C.O.A. president later this month and that he will be succeeded by Ken Farmer of Ottawa, who was in charge of the Canadian team at the Helsinki Games.

Today's session will be taken up mostly with the registration of delegates expected from Quebec to British Columbia and reports of various committees. The big work is expected to start Friday and conclude early Saturday.

SAANICH MUNICIPAL VOTERS' LIST

CADETS PLAY VITAL ROLE — By DENNY BOYD

Grid Ambassadors

It is no secret that the rise of interest in Canadian football in Victoria was concurrent with the entry of Royal Roads in the Victoria Junior Football League three years ago.

Since then the league has flourished until now it is one of the top drawing cards on Saturday afternoons.

The entry of the cadets in the local circuit added not only fan interest, but superior football quality, finances, color and equipment.

When the cadets play on Saturdays, it is a little known fact that they supply benches, timekeeper's tables, yardage signs and even the timer's gun.

Last year when Royal Roads and Oak Bay Goblins played for the city championship, half the Oak Bay team was outfitted in shoulder and hip pads lent them by their opponents.

For local football officials, it came as a distinct shock three years ago when Royal Roads requested entry in the local league because English rugby had been the top sport at the college for years.

However the school's athletic directors felt that the move was a wise one as 90 per cent of the cadets had either played football or came from locales where it was a top sport. In addition, cadets graduating from Royal Roads finish their course at Kingston's Royal Military College where football is the major sport.

In their first two seasons the hard-hitting cadet teams swept to two city and playoff championships and their presence added class to the league.

The first year they entered, their awesome power, depth and well-drilled offensive and defensive platoons carried them to an undefeated season. No other club in the league could cross their goal line all season.

Last year they not only had their goal-line crossed but were tied during the season and defeated in one game of the city finals. But their polished grid machine still picked up another league and playoff championship.

This year the cadets finished the season in second place but they had to beat previously undefeated Vampires to make the playoffs.

The reason for their apparent reversal of form this year is that under the league setup they are actually playing out of their class. Because Royal Canadian Navy could not field a team that would conform to junior age regulations, the league allowed Vampires and Navy to use over-age players. What it amounts to is that Royal Roads is a junior club playing in an intermediate league.

Starting Saturday the cadets will be facing the toughest test any grid club from the ivy-covered castle has undertaken.

Saturday they will be playing Vancouver Meralomas in Vancouver in aid of the British Empire Games fund.

They return home, rest any bruises they pick up from Vancouver and meet the speed-conscious Vampires in a two-game total-point championship series starting Tuesday. Second game of the series is Saturday.

Three games, and they will be hard games, in one week, but anyone who has seen them or has played against them knows that the cadets will be running, tackling and blocking just as hard in the third game as they did in the first game.

Football is big business at Royal Roads and they have a reputation as champions to uphold.

LAST DIMMED LOOK AT XMAS PRESENTS, TOT BLIND TODAY

KINGSTON, Ont., Nov. 6 (BUP).—Four-year-old Barbara Ann Burton took her last dimmed look Wednesday at the new big red rocking horse Santa Claus brought two months early.

Today she was blind.

Doctors, who already had removed her left eye, removed the right eye Wednesday in a last attempt to root out a cancer growing behind it. They said it was her sight or her life.

Her condition was satisfactory after the operation, but her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Burton, could only "hope for the best."

Burton brought home the big red rocking horse last month when he knew that by Christmas Barbara Ann would never be able to see her toys.

"She could just see the color," he said. "But it would do your heart good to see how she enjoyed it."

Oak Bay Lot Rezoned For Apartment Block

Rezoning of a lot at 1280 Newport Avenue by Oak Bay council Tuesday night will permit erection of an apartment building at that address. The matter had been recommended to council by the Oak Bay Town Planning Commission on behalf of E. G. Bissenden.

Building permits for 20 homes were issued last month, with an average value of $13,075. Municipal building value is down $472,711 from the same month last year.

Finland became a republic in 1919. For a century or more before that, it was an autonomous grand duchy of the Russian empire.

ISLAND DIGEST

NANAIMO, Nov. 6—A television camera that can be lowered into the sea was demonstrated at the Pacific Biological Station Wednesday by Dr. W. F. Torrington of the National Research Council.

In its first test in salt water the camera revealed scenes of undersea marine life to viewers seated comfortably before a television screen on the research vessel Investigator.

LYTTLETON MOVES TO HIT MAU MAU

British Colonial Secretary to Present Plans to Rid Kenya of Anti-White Terror

LONDON, Nov. 6 (CP).—Colonial Secretary Oliver Lyttelton said today he will present his plans for controlling a colonial terrorist organization before Prime Minister Churchill today.

Lyttelton, just returned from a first-hand inspection trip to Kenya, East Africa, did not reveal what measures he will propose to crush the Mau Mau. But, he told a press conference, "it is a movement that has got to be suppressed—and that is what I have been examining."

"It is fairly widespread and deeply rooted," he said. "The crimes it commits are some of the worst you can imagine."

Mau Mau flourishes among the Kikuyu tribesmen of Kenya and is held together by a grisly series of oaths administrated to novices who dedicate themselves to drive out the white man. It keeps a strong hold over other tribesmen by the threat of sudden death to betrayers.

Its members have killed British farmers on their lonely stations and African chieftains who tried to counter its influence.

Lyttelton said Mau Mau was born of African poverty—"it is anti-European, anti-Asian and anti-Christian."

Measures so far taken in Kenya include the proclamation of state of emergency and the detention without trial of many Mau Mau suspects. An economic development program has been announced, but the colonial government said it could not be carried out in present unsettled conditions.

Lyttelton said the British government will consider problems presented by land ownership, wages and education in Kenya. He had discussed these matters with the colonial governor, Sir Evelyn Baring, and they had drawn up plans to deal with them. A royal commission also will visit East Africa.

The House of Commons will probably debate colonial policy Friday.

Laxness at Don Jail Disclosed by Official

Deputy Governor Claims Objections To Guard Ignored; Bribe Offer Told

TORONTO, Nov. 6 (BUP).—A royal commission investigating conditions at the Don Jail, from which the Edwin Alonzo Boyd gang escaped, learned Wednesday that an epileptic guard twice was found unconscious in a corridor with prisoners in possession of his keys.

Deputy jail governor Alexander Noble said he had objected to the unidentified epileptic guard being put in charge of a large number of prisoners but said his objection was brushed off by his superior at the jail.

Noble, suspended along with jail governor T. W. Brand and six guards pending findings of the commission, said he had repeatedly told various jail governors that there were not enough guards to do the work. Nothing was done, he said.

Peter Joseph Lee, one of the suspended guards, told the commission he had been offered a $30,000 bribe by a casual acquaintance known only as "Moxie" if he would set the Boyd gang free.

Lee and another guard were at a table drinking beer when "Moxie" sat down with them in a district beverage room.

"He asked if I knew the Boyd gang and I said, 'Yes'. Then he asked me if I wanted to make $30,000," Lee said.

"I told him it was pretty enticing but what was I supposed to do?"

"He said I should let the Boyd gang out and we all laughed."

INCIDENT NOT WANTED

Lee said he thought "Moxie" was just "mouthing off" and did not report the incident to his superiors.

Noble, a veteran of 25 years at the jail, said there was hardly any contact between jail governors and their deputies. He did not meet Brand until April of this year, three months after Brand was appointed, he said.

Noble also told of protests he had made as censor of inmates' mail. Anne Jackson, in a letter to her husband, Boyd gangman Leonard Jackson, said she had met two jail guards who were "very considerate." This letter was written last fall, was shown to Governor C. Sanderson, Brand's predecessor, Noble said, and he passed it with the explanation that Mrs. Jackson probably was referring to guards she had met at the jail.

Jackson, sentenced to be hanged December 16 for the murder of Sergeant of Detectives Edmund Tong here last March, escaped from the jail in November, 1951, with Edwin Boyd and William Russell Jackson. He escaped again September 8 with the same two companions and Steve Suchan, who also has been sentenced to be hanged December 16 for Tong's death.

B.C. Horticulturist's Service Term Extended

Benjamin Hoy, provincial horticulturist in the agriculture department, has been given a six-month extension past his retirement date.

Mr. Hoy reaches the retirement age of 65 February 12, 1953, but an order in council has been passed authorizing a six-month extension "in the interest of the department."

Last week, Dr. F. T. Fairey, deputy education minister, was given a similar extension.

Three Victoria Students Win Scholarships

Bursaries to Aid Studies at U.B.C.

Bursaries donated by various individuals and organizations to assist students with good academic standing to continue their studies at the University of British Columbia this winter have been awarded to nine Victoria and Vancouver Island students, it was announced today.

Victoria winners are: Joan Linguard Kirby, 445 Gorge Road, Faculty Women's Club Bursary of $125; Helen Elizabeth Price, Victoria, Rotary Memorial Bursary of $200; Frank Weetman Gower, Victoria, Delta Upsilon Fraternity Bursary of $100.

Island winners: Patricia Kirwood Johnson, Sidney, the American Women's Club Bursary of $250; McC. Michael Ames, Port Alberni, the Mr. and Mrs. M. M. Waterman Bursary of $25; Ronald John Hancock, Duncan, Rotary Memorial Bursary of $250; Arlene Ilvi Moisio, Ladysmith, the Women's Club Bursary of $200; Barbara Lee Ward, Courtenay, the Ai Alpha Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi Bursary of $50; Brian Michael Abbott, Campbell River, the Alpha Delta Phi Fraternity Bursary of $50.

"GRASS WIDOWS" SAFE

AUSTIN, Tex. (UP).—Members of the women's auxiliary of the American Legion in Texas were assured that they can't be put out, even if they divorce the Legionnaire. Burton Hackney, Texas judge advocate, ruled that "grass widows" could remain members as long as they paid their dues.

Esquimalt High School Dedicated By Minister Before Crowd of 700

Esquimalt marked a long step forward Wednesday night when the new high school was officially declared open by Minister of Education Mrs. Tilly Rolston.

The building was jammed with over 700 citizens and students when Mrs. Rolston, after an introduction by Dr. F. T. Fairey, Deputy Minister of Education, cut the ribbon across the gymnasium-auditorium doors.

The minister said she hoped the students would take full advantage of the opportunities offered them, so much greater than during operation of the old familiar three Rs system of the past.

B.C. spent $36,000,000 a year on education, she said.

Facts of its early history were brought to light when C. A. Kelly, present principal of the years since the school was started in the Island Weavers building on Esquimalt Road, with an enrollment of 75 and a staff of three teachers.

The school then moved to Lampson Street and later classes were held in three rooms on Head Street, which soon became overcrowded.

Plans started in 1945 were finally completed and enabled 250 students to attend class this year. Two members of the 1926 staff of the school, Miss G. N. Hewlings and Mr. Kelly, assisted by 16 other instructors, carry the load today.

Richard Reeve, chairman of Greater Victoria School Board, spoke on the value of the modernized school to the educational program, and of the work by the Department of Education which made such schools possible.

A musical selection written for the occasion by choirmaster W. C. Ozard, entitled "Dedication," and a song from the "Bohemian Girl," proved enjoyable renditions by members of the Esquimalt High Glee Club.

Commander A. C. Wurtele, Reeve, of Esquimalt, extended best wishes for the future to the staff and students of the school on behalf of the council.

Invocation by Rev. J. A. Roberts, vocal solos by Mimi Bavin and Charles Pash, and selections by the school band completed the program.

Vice-principal W. D. Reid, assisted by staff members, conducted tours of inspection of the school following the ceremony.

Oak Bay Won't License Transient Contractors

Oak Bay council members decided Wednesday night they cannot take action in line with a resolution presented by the Victoria Retail Lumber and Shingle Co-operative Association to license transient contractors.

Municipal clerk A. D. Findlay was advised to write the group suggesting that a brief be sent to the provincial government urging bonding of such contractors.

VICTORIA, B.C., THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 6, 1952

BETWEEN TIMES

By MONTE ROBERTS

As fearlessly predicted in Between Times, Ike Eisenhower is the new president-elect of the United States.

However, I am not going to boast about this accurate prediction.

It was made by my Favorite Wife.

She is taking care of any boasting needed.

Those who were wrong on the election results can take consolation from the fact that Ike's brother, Ed, was extremely doubtful, too.

Ed, who plays golf here each year in the Seniors' tourney, said shortly after his brother's nomination that he "wouldn't give him better than a fifty-fifty chance."

And his tone of voice and expression were more pessimistic than his words.

However, this did not stop friends of Ed (who is a lawyer) from calling him "Mr. Attorney-General."

These same friends in Victoria are wondering how Ed's congratulatory message to his "kid Brother" Ike will read.

When Ike was promoted from major to colonel, Ed wired him: "Glad I was able to fix it for you."

When Ike was elevated to major-general, Ike sent the same wire: "Glad I was able to fix it for you."

But when Ike became general of the army, Ed wired him: "This is as far as I go—from now on you're on your own."

There will now be a slight pause of 45 days while the United States changes horses in mid-stream.

I have received written support for some recently-expressed views on felines.

Writes A. Edge, 2075 Lorne Terrace: "Congratulations on your stand on cats." (I cannot remember ever standing on a single cat, let alone plural cats, but let that pass). "It makes nice reading after some of the mush or rot I've read in letters to the editor . . . as for Punch catching rats or mice, why should he when the lowly cat is around?" (Punch couldn't catch his breath, let alone a cat). "As soon as cats cease to exist we will have two song birds in every tree. Signed, Lover of Dogs and Birds."

Thank you, lover of dogs, etc. But my own attitude must be explained thusly: It is not that I cannot get along with cats, it is just that I can get along WITHOUT them so much better.

Several constituents, notably M. P. Grant, 1016 North Park Street, spotted an intriguing little ad in the "Suites to Rent" classifications the other day:

THREE-ROOM SUITE WITH BATH ON BUS LINE—ROSS STREET, PHONE—

Pleads Mr. Grant: "Please find out which bus line the bath is on."

'. . . Be Sure and Mention the Weather'

Vancouver dancer Robert Ito made sure ballerina Natalia Butko of Toronto said nice things about British Columbia when she wrote a dozen post cards to friends in the east after arriving in Victoria this morning with the National Ballet Company. Miss Butko has been dancing professionally with Canadian companies since 1939, when she was with the Volkoff Ballet Company. (Times photo.)

City Plans 'Investment' To Meet Debt

'Good Housekeeping' Referendum Sought

A "good housekeeping" plan to help Victoria meet future heavy financial commitments, will be put to the electorate this December if City Council approves.

Members of the council's finance committee today were all in favor of the plan as outlined by Ald. William Pinfold, chairman.

It involves investing $201,000 realized from sale of the grain elevator at about 4 per cent.

Assent of the electorate is needed to permit the setting aside of $35,000 a year from 1953 to 1968 to aid the city whose debt charges jump almost $250,000 in 1964.

"Let's invest the $200,000 and take care of the city's debt rather than squander it on something we don't need," urged Ald. Pinfold.

GOOD FOR CREDIT

"It will put us in a much stronger financial position if we have to borrow money to meet any emergencies in future years."

The move, he said, "will take care of something that's going to be a big bump to the city 12 years from now."

"My idea is to invest it before someone gets their hands on it," he said. "If we have to meet an emergency 12 years from now, now is the time to plan."

City Manager Cecil Wyatt, in a comprehensive outline of the city's financial picture last February, suggested that $53,000 a year be set aside for the years 1953 to 1968 to take care of the expected "jump" in debt charges.

HELPS PAYMENTS

If the grain elevator sale funds are set aside and invested, the amount needed each year would be reduced to $35,000, Mr. Wyatt explained.

"I think this should go to the electorate," he said. "They should give consent."

The committee will recommend to City Council meeting Thursday that the question be put to the electorate on December 11.

Phone Rates Battle Urged at High Level

Reception for National Leaders

Hon. Robert W. Mayhew, P.C., left, newly-named Canadian ambassador to the Imperial Court of Japan, and Ralph Campney, recently-appointed solicitor general in the Ottawa government, will be guests of honor here at a reception in Liberal Headquarters at 7.30 p.m. Friday. Mr. Mayhew, federal member for Victoria since November 29, 1937, is making what probably will be his last public appearance before leaving for Japan. Mr. Campney is federal member for Vancouver Centre. Hon. James Sinclair, another B.C. member and Mr. Mayhew's successor as fisheries minister, is unable to attend the reception.

Skillings Holds Ottawa May Be 'More Receptive'

Ottawa will be "far more receptive" to the west's protests on increased telephone rates this year than last, Ald. Waldo Skillings said today.

He told a meeting of City Council's finance committee that the protest should be tackled on "a high political level."

"I think Otawa is far more receptive to suggestion from the West than in 1951," he said referring to the last telephone hearing. "A couple of things have happened out here to make them more receptive."

He stated the board of transport commissioners, which hears the application for increase, was appointed by the Liberal government.

"I think they are going to listen sympathetically to any protest from the West."

Finance committee agreed that Victoria should join with Vancouver, New Westminster and the provincial government in a joint protest.

Arthur Patton, city solicitor, said the government estimated cost of fighting the application would be $25,000 with the municipalities to bear 50 per cent and the government the other 50.

"The provincial government did well on the rail freight increase," said Ald. Skillings. "I think we can win this too."

In a two-page brief Mr. Patton outlined points for consideration in presentation of the protest.

He said the B.C. Telephone Co. Ltd. buys supplies through subsidiary companies and not on the open competitive market.

The company, he said, "pays substantial sums to holding companies.

"IMPROVIDENT"

"Improvident agreements are made with the holding companies all of which add very materially to its operating costs."

Mr. Patton said the company had been paying excessive dividents, and termed 8 per cent paid on ordinary shares "far in excess of comparable dividends paid by other utility companies."

The company, he said, enjoys a monopoly in its field and as it is regulated by the board of transport commissioners does not require "substantial surpluses."

He contended the company in 1950 "allowed itself to be committed for a large increase in wages which is established on a wrong principle." This was repeated in June of 1951, he said.

At the hearing on the last increase the city claimed the increases, corporate income tax and defense surtax, should not be calculated as expenses to be reflected in the rates. The board, however, disagreed.

"However the board said when this surtax or emergency tax was taken off the board would keep in mind that rates would be considered in the light of lessened expenses," Mr. Patton concluded.

NAVY SEEKS GOVT. AID FOR SERVICE CENTRE

Commodore Kenneth F. Adams, commanding officer of H.M.C.S. Naden, was scheduled to interview Premier W. A. C. Bennett this afternoon to discuss the possibility of establishing a recreation centre for servicemen in Victoria.

It is understood that considerable progress has been made, and a navy spokesman said that all concerned were "optimistic" that the necessary funds could be raised.

Commodore Adams was to outline progress and to request provincial government co-operation if the project goes through.

United Island Fights For Fair Road Share

Population's Level Entitles Citizens To Six Times Present Mileage, Claim

A common road program for Vancouver Island hammered out at a meeting of representatives of 14 chambers of commerce at Nanaimo Wednesday will be presented shortly to the British Columbia government.

The highway plan will also be presented by Island delegates to the annual meeting of the B.C. Chamber of Commerce at Vancouver Nov. 14 and 15.

These were the major decisions emerging from the stormy, four-hour talking marathon of the roads committee of the Associated Chambers of Commerce of Vancouver Island.

Major Cuthbert Holmes of Victoria, chairman of the meeting, had to fight hard at times to keep order as spokesmen for different Island centres strove mightily to get their respective highway needs included in the program.

But as Robert Mawhinney of Nanaimo, president of the Island chamber group, told the delegates: "A united front has finally been achieved. It now remains for Island spokesmen to press vigorously for acceptance of their sorely needed roads program."

PROGRAM

The program calls for completion of the Island Highway, loop roads south and north of the Alberni Canal, extension from the Alberni Valley to Ucluelet and loop roads from Port Renfrew.

"We have a powerful case for better roads," Maj. Holmes told the meeting. "According to recent studies by the Victoria chamber we should have at least six times the road mileage we now have."

NEEDS

A recent speech in Victoria by Public Works Minister P. A. Gaglardi provides a basis for estimating the Island's highway needs, Hector Crombie, Victoria, pointed out. The minister said road building should be based on "the needs of the people."

Number of people on the Island is 215,000 or 18 per cent of all the people in British Columbia, he said.

But the Island has only 2,182 miles of highway or a mere 9 per cent of the total provincial government roads in B.C., the speaker declared.

Motor vehicle registrations reveal there are six vehicles on the Island for every square mile against less than one vehicle per square mile for the mainland, he said.

Conservative Chief To Give Interview When Cougars Play

Progressive Conservative leader George Drew, a hockey fan and player from away back, will be interviewed on CJVI between the second and third periods of the Victoria Cougars - Tacoma Rockets game Friday, Nov. 14.

Mr. Drey, a keen Toronto Maple Leaf supporter, will attend the game along with other prominent Tories during his Victoria visit, part of a B.C. wide tour.

He will be interviewed by sports announcer Ted Reynolds at about 9.45 p.m. The interview will be "non-political."

The former Ontario premier's only Victoria speech will be at a reception at the Club Sirocco on Friday afternoon, Nov. 14.

It is understood the Opposition leader would have made a major public speech in Victoria, but the organizing committee found it impossible to obtain a suitable place. The Empress Hotel was booked solidly by a Parent-Teachers' Association convention.

His talk at the reception, however, is expected to run about 40 minutes.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES

Vancouver airport was "socked in" with fog for 90 minutes early this morning, causing a delay in Trans-Canada Airline flights to the mainland.

One trans-continental flight from eastern Canada to Vancouver landed at Patricia Bay airport and waited for the Vancouver fog to clear.

All flights were back on schedule at noon.

BALLET BRINGS MASCOT

Victorians Dancing In National Troupe

BY DAVE STOCK

Thirty-two enthusiastic, young dancers; 10 technicians, and a displaced, tiger-striped cat named Salome came to town today.

The troupe disembarked from the Vancouver night steamer at 8 a.m., headed for the Dominion Hotel, had breakfast, and then set about the business of getting ready to stage another two-day show in another new city.

The 42 people comprise Canada's new National Ballet Company. Salome, the cat, as yet has only unofficial status. Heads of the National Ballet Guild at the Toronto office still don't know about her.

The cat joined the company in Moose Jaw. Members of the ballet troupe rescued her from a frisky dog.

Some of the men still claim Salome's only an old alley cat, but the girls insist she's "a lovely thing, and part Persian, too."

Anyway, Salome stays.

Heading the N.B.C. troupe is petite Celia Franca, a former leading dancer with Sadler's Wells and Metropolitan ballets. She was sought out in England early last year to come to Canada and undertake organization of the company.

TOUR FOR TALENT

She came and brought with her Kay Ambrose, writer of ballet books and designer of sets and costumes. Miss Franca toured the country searching for talent, and assembled her proteges in Toronto to begin serious training on Sept. 3, 1951.

The company played only in Ontario and Quebec last year. Their current tour is a nation-wide undertaking.

The troupe set out from Toronto October 24. They have appeared so far in Calgary, Red Deer, Edmonton and Vancouver. They will present two different programs while here—one tonight and one Friday—and then will head east again, with six stops scheduled before reaching Toronto.

The company will play a week in its home city in December; have a week's holiday between Christmas and New Year and then tour the eastern provinces.

THREE VICTORIANS

There are six British Columbians in the troupe, three of whom are former residents of Victoria.

Joyce Hill, whose home is now Powell River, was born here. Frank Rodwell, who still considers Victoria his home, and Fergus Hunter, who prefers Vancouver, were one-time pupils of Wynne Shaw in Victoria.

The ballet troupe has a three-car section in which to travel—two sleepers and an oversized baggage car. The baggage unit was built some years ago when the King of Siam came to Canada. It was built to accommodate the king's three Daimlers and one Rolls Royce.

Famous Artists box office reported this afternoon a limited number of tickets still available for tonight's performance of the Coppellia Ballet. More seats are still to be had for Friday night's presentation "Les Sylphides," "Ballet Behind Us" and "The Nutcracker."

Ex-Cruise Ship May Sail On C.P.'s Coast Service

Further details have been learned here to support reports in The Times of October 29 that the C.P.R. is negotiating with a Boston shipowner for a replacement for Ss. Princess Kathleen, sunk September 7.

It is now believed that the ship in question is Ss. Evangeline, owned by Eastern Steamship Lines, Inc., Boston.

Evangeline, former southern cruise ship and wartime troop transport, is tied up in New York Harbor, and is for sale.

The ship and her sister, Ss. Yarmouth, have been inspected by C.P.R. officials, but no official announcement has been made. If the company decides to purchase, the announcement will come from the head office in Montreal.

Evangeline and Yarmouth were both built in 1927, by W. Cramp & Sons, Philadelphia. They are of a design which would fit in well with the "white Princess" tradition; straight stemmed, with cruiser stern, and fairly high superstructure.

Overall length is 365 feet, with 55-foot beam. Machinery consists of four steam turbines, driving twin screws, and the ships are of about 5,000 tons. They were rated at 19 knots when built.

The single funnel is planted exactly amidships, and there is a good deal of open space on the boat deck, which could be adapted as recreation area for cruise passengers.

When used as cruise ships previously, Evangeline and Yarmouth had accommodation for 750 passengers.

Esquimalt's Councillors To Run Again

All three Esquimalt councillors whose terms of office expire next month today indicated they will seek election for another two-year term. They are Walter Holder, J. E. Carey and James Bryant.

Mr. Bryant points to the results of his last two years of service as his main campaign platform. He was parks committee member last year when municipal aid was extended for construction of a lacrosse box at Lyall and Fraser Streets.

Councillor Carey stated he will urge an enlarged sidewalk and drainage program.

No indications of the campaign of Councillor Holder were announced.

By-Law Vote on Pemberton Park

City voters will be asked if they approve a city by-law for closure of Pemberton Park to make way for a new subdivision.

A greater portion of park property will be provided just opposite the present park, which lends itself better to subdivision, Ald. Waldo Skillings said at finance committee meeting today.

Coach Lines Staff Seeks Better Pay

Negotiations will open Friday between Vancouver Island Coach Lines and drivers and office staff members who seek a wage increase and certain changes in working rules.

Employees are represented by the Canadian Brotherhood of Railway Employees and Other Transport Workers (C.C.L.). About 70 bus drivers and 45 office employees will be affected by the negotiations.

Hatcher Will Hunt For Raid Shelters In City Buildings

A survey will soon be made of buildings in downtown Victoria to assess the facilities they might provide as shelter to the general public in the event of an air attack, Civil Defense Director Leonard Hatcher discloses.

The buildings will first be examined for suitability to shelter those persons normally employed or resident therein, and secondly for suitability as public shelters.

Mr. Hatcher hopes eventually some shelters will be set up and outfitted with first aid and other emergency supplies. Mr. Hatcher has been asked by Seattle authorities whether this city plans to provide shelters in department stores. Though the matter has been taken up with two department stores here, no decisions have been reached, he explained.

He added: "Only when a state of emergency has been declared by the government can the civil defense organization assume control of privately owned buildings for shelter purposes."

Aldermen Approve Solicitor's Words On Firehall Vote

Wording of a referendum to be placed before the electorate at the Dec. 11 civic election on closure of the Yates Street fire hall has been left to City Solicitor Arthur Patton.

City council's finance committee today turned down a suggested referendum from the firemen's union and accepted one from the solicitor as follows:

"Are you in favor of the reduction already made to the staff of the fire department in order to meet the city's financial condition?"

The firemen's union suggested the following wording in their petition for a referendum:

"Are you in favor of the closing of the No. 2 Yates Street fire hall and the reduction of the fire department staff by the dismissal of 10 men?"

Mr. Patton said of the union's suggestion: "This question does not settle the real issue and some modification should be made to get a fair result from the vote."

Six Months' Jail For Car Borrower

John H. Brenton, New Jubilee Hotel, who pleaded guilty to a charge of taking a car without the owner's consent and stealing a jacket under the value of $25, was sentenced by Magistrate H. C. Hall in city police court today to six months' imprisonment on each charge.

Sentences are to run concurrently.

SCHOOL FOR B.C. LEGISLATORS

Rookies to Study House Rules

British Columbia's freshman M.L.A.'s will attend a special "school" during the early part of the spring session to familiarize themselves in the ways of parliamentary procedure.

The school will be conducted by E. K. De Beck, clerk of the Legislature, who has consented to teach the new members the somewhat complicated House procedure.

"I think the lessons will help the new members overcome their initial fear of the rules of procedure," said Mr. De Beck.

He said many of the fledgling members have already signified their intention of taking advantage of the course.

Of the 48 members in the House, 31 have never set foot inside the assembly before.

Many have expressed considerable awe at the thought of diving into Legislative tangles without some knowledge of procedure.

Mr. De Beck will teach the rookie legislators the functions of parliament, rules of debate, procedure in the House, machinery of parliament, traditions of parliament, and the laws and conventions of the Constitution.

In addition, the clerk of the Legislature will show his "students" two films depicting procedure in the House of Commons, Ottawa, and the House of Commons, England.

The course probably will be held during the mornings in the early days of the session. Mr. De Beck wants to give as many talks as he can in the first part of the session so the members will have the benefit of the teaching for the bulk of the work facing them.

Premier W. A. C. Bennett has given his blessing to the plan.

There are 15 new Social Credit members, nine new C.C.F.-ers, two new Liberals and two new Progressive Conservatives. The two members elected in the Columbia and Similkameen by-elections Nov. 24 also will be new to the ways of the Legislature.

ASK The TIMES

Q.—Will you please tell us what year the present lights were set up in Athletic Park. Was it when professional baseball started here? H.K.

A.—The present lights were installed in 1946, the same year that professional baseball was introduced in Victoria.

Q.—Where and how did the expression "cover charge," as used by certain hotels and restaurants, originate? W.P.W.

A.—"Cover charge" is derived from the French "couvert" and in brief means a place at table. The person is entitled to a seat, may see the floor show, if any, but must pay for wine and food.

Q.—Is there a law in B.C. saying a girl who has left home and supported herself for a year may marry without her parents' consent? She is over 18 years of age. Is there a law in any other province to that effect? H.R.

A.—In B.C., till a girl is 21 the consent of her parents is required, though there is provision for a caveat preventing the ceremony in certain conditions, which may lead to a court hearing. In Alberta, 16 to 18, both parents' consent needed; 18 to 21, consent of one parent. In Saskatchewan, under 21, consent of parents not required if minor, being at least 18 years of age has been self-supporting for three months.

Anyone wishing a question answered is invited to send the problem along to the Times, addressed to "Ask The Times" Editor. Questions and answers will be published daily.

All questions should deal with matters of fact and be of general interest.

Sports Writer Is Agin'st Dishwasher! And How!

By PENNY SAVER

A young newspaper friend of mine, named Denny, who happens to work in the sports department of this same paper, and myself, got involved in quite a heated argument the other day on the pros and cons of a dishwasher in the home.

Oh, is he against it!

He just about blew his top when I suggested that every woman, wherever it is financially possible, should have a dishwasher.

"It gives her time to do other more important jobs," I argued. "She's not chained to the kitchen sink."

He flared back, "Give a woman a dishwasher and you wreck the whole basis of marriage. If she's not capable, or rather, if she's inclined to shy away from the kitchen I don't see how she would be a good wife."

From here on in, it got worse so I won't relate any more, but I have news for my friend in the next office.

If he thought a dishwasher was going to wreck the basis of marriage, what will he think of this?

Women don't even have to darn socks any more!

That's right! I could hardly believe my eyes when I came across a kit with patches that do an excellent darning job by just being ironed on.

Socks are darned with hot iron in eight seconds.

In the kit are 36 patches in assorted colors in soft knit darns. Also, there is a darning knob to place under the hole. It sells for 29 cents.

This patching-by-iron business does not stop there. It has also been introduced in strips for bigger patching jobs. It comes to the rescue when repairing worn, torn or burned spots.

Six colors in strips 2 x 5 inches, can be cut to your own requirements and sells for 25 pennies.

There's another way to get around this darning business. For 49 pennies you can buy a bottle of invisible mending liquid which will do the job in 60 seconds. It will act on all fabrics and is not affected by washing or ironing.

It is suggested you apply it by putting a small amount in a saucer and then putting it on with a match stick or your finger. Don't worry, though, it will come off your finger easily by just rubbing it.

A large size bottle of the invisible mending liquid is 79 pennies.

WHY GROW OLD?

Eye Make-Up Important But It Must Be Right

Clever eye makeup can make nondescript eyes stand out attractively and it can make naturally lovely eyes plain magic. It seems to me that this is one part of makeup which has been neglected by too many women. There is nothing which can make such a difference in your appearance as artistically made up lashes and brows. I think women are afraid of this because of some horrible examples they have seen in the use of mascara which produced that awful "beady" look.

Eye makeup can give the whole face a lift. I know one teen-age daughter who, with the sincere idea of giving her mother a compliment said, "Mother when your eyelashes are fixed like that you do not need to have your face lifted."

The following procedure is becoming to all eyes. It will highlight them and make them look larger. Apply just a bit of vaseline to your upper lids close to the lashes. Use a soft eyebrow pencil (black) and draw a line at the base of your lashes. Extend this line out and upward just a fraction at the outside corner of the eyes. With your finger, smooth the vaseline toward the lashes. Now apply mascara to the lashes. Do not have the brush too wet.

After this take a look at your brows. In the first place the stray hairs (those not really in the line of the brow) should be removed with tweezers. For making the brows look heavier, always use a dark eyebrow pencil, never a black one, not even if your brows are black. The brown gives a much more natural effect than black on brows. Use light, little feathery strokes and then blend them with your fingertips.

I think eyeshadow is a very tricky thing for the middle aged woman to use. Sometimes this is becoming but too often her eyes have a tendency to have darkened surrounding skin and hollowness. A suspicion of eye shadow placed just at the edge of the upper lid makes the eyes look larger.

However, I do not think that the rule of applying shadow from the lid edge all the way up to the brow is applicable to most women past their very early youth.

Use eye makeup but use it wisely.

Cost of Proposed Bedside Nursing Heard by Institute

Mrs. Grace Shaw, member of Saanich Council, attended the last meeting of Lake Hill Women's Institute and explained some of the problems of finance connected with proposed reinstatement of bedside nursing service which the institute has been urging for the community. Mrs. A. S. Moffat, convener of the institute committee which has studied the matter for the past 18 months, told about the successful experiment in home nursing care carried out by a Montreal hospital, details having been given here recently by Col. W. Bovey for the medical-social division of Victoria Welfare Council.

The meeting, chaired by Mrs. T. W. McGregor, dealt with routine reports. Twelve cartons of garden produce had been sent to the Solarium as result of the October appeal. Mrs. Eric Hagen reported sending a parcel of Garry Oak acorns to a sister institute in England which is to be sent a Christmas hamper. Members will leave donations at the hall next Monday.

Mrs. R. S. Vickers and Mrs. E. Glover, appointed nominating committee, will report at the annual meeting in December.

Mrs. Vickers and Mrs. M. Cowan convened the tea.

No Wife Need Remain With Insulting, Brutal Husband

By ELIZABETH B. HURLOCK, Ph.D.

No wife should bear insults from her husband nor should she allow him to ruin her reputation maliciously. What is a wife to do when her husband behaves this way, this woman wants to know:

Hurlock

(Q)—"In the 12 years we have been married, my husband has treated me terribly. He has ruined my reputation among his relatives and friends by telling them things about me that are not true. When something goes wrong in the house, he blames me for it. He goes out on the porch and, in the presence of all the neighbors, he calls me ugly names. I have lost all patience and am about to file a lawsuit against him, asking for support for myself and our four children."

(A)—For the sake of your children, give your husband one more chance to reform. Tell him what you are planning to do and ask him if he is willing to mend his ways. If he continues his actions, then carry out your threat.

Your minister can help you to take the necessary legal action to win a separation from your husband with provision for adequate support for yourself and the children. With four children, all under 12 years of age, it would be impossible for you to leave them and work.

Therefore, it is most important that you make arrangements for adequate support for your children. They should not suffer privations just because their father cannot or will not treat you properly.

A home atmosphere in which a husband is constantly insulting and mistreating his wife is not the right kind for children to grow up in. The court will realize this and will decide in your favor.

I don't understand your husband's treatments. Surely he must realize that it reflects badly on him and arouses people's sympathies for you.

Elizabeth Hurlock is one of the nation's great psychologists, and she will gladly help you with personal problems.

Former Victorian Wed in Vancouver

Candlelight illuminated Knox United Church, Vancouver, for the recent nuptial service which united Evelyn Doris Tiers, formerly of this city, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh A. Tiers, and Henry James Grieg, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Greig, Regina. Rev. S. G. Woolfrey officiated at the double-ring ceremony.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a redingote of Viennese lace over her gown of net and satin. The lace was repeated in applique on the billowing skirt, while lily-point sleeves and satin-edged panniers which swept into a small train, heightened the period effect. Her French illusion veil cascaded from a wedding ring headdress of pearlized orange blossoms, and she carried a bouquet of deep pink roses.

Miss Joan Ellis and Mrs. Edward Flanagan, both of Victoria, and Miss Renneth Stone attended the bride. Their similar frocks were ballerina of teal blue shot taffeta with softly rolled collars and short kimono sleeves. They wore eye veils and gloves of pink and carried crescent bouquets of rapture roses.

Brother-in-law of the groom, Clair Wilson of Nanaimo, was best man, and ushering were Richard Brown and Stanley Oakes.

Soloist Gordon Wiles, sang "I Love Thee" by Grieg, and "The Lord's Prayer."

During the reception at The Hollies, Wilfred L. King proposed the toast to the bride.

For motoring to San Francisco, the bride chose a russet wool coat dress topped by a plaid tweed coat, trimmed with black velvet. A black velour model hat and black lizard shoes and bag completed the ensemble. Her corsage was of gardenias.

The newlyweds will make their home at 1635 Chandler Street, Victoria.

Christening in New Westminster

Debora Louise were the names bestowed upon the four-month-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. G. Kraft, New Westminster, formerly of this city, at a recent ceremony in St. Joseph's Church, Port Moody. Father J. Boignon officiated.

The baby's christening gown of silk embroidered on taffeta was sent from Fort William by her uncle, Mr. Robert Roycroft.

Godmother is Miss Josephine Gaspari, Victoria, and godfather is Mr. Russell Kraft, R.C.A.F. station in Ontario. Mr. Raymond Kraft stood proxy for his brother.

Maternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. E. V. Colley, Victoria, and paternal are Mr. and Mrs. M. J. Kraft, New Westminster.

Following the ceremony a tea was held at the home of the infant's parents. Mr. and Mrs. Colley and son Gary flew from Victoria to attend the christening and presented their grandchild with a gold locket.

Parties Mark Anniversary

Dr. and Mrs. P. R. Horton entertained at a dinner recently to honor Dr. Horton's parents, Mr. and Mrs. P. R. Horton, on their 25th wedding anniversary.

Following the dinner a surprise party was held at the anniversary couple's home on Oxford Street. Mrs. Horton was presented with a red rose corsage with bebe chrysanthemums and Mr. Horton received a white carnation buttoniere.

The lace-covered table was centred with a two-tier cake and white candles. Mrs. K. Enslie and Mrs. W. Strawson presided and Miss Lorraine Horton and Miss Jean McKenzie were serviteurs.

A telegram was received from Mr. and Mrs. Horton's eldest daughter, Miss Emma Horton, in Bangalore, India. Their other children are Dr. Horton, Victoria; Oswald Horton, Courtenay, who attended the celebrations; Miss Lorraine Horton, who flew from Vancouver; Mr. Bevan Horton, and Miss Noeline Horton, both of this city. They have two grandchildren, Teddy and Russell Horton.

Other guests at the party were Mr. and Mrs. C. Deacon, Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Smith, Mr. and Mrs. W. Taylor, Saanichton; Mr. and Mrs. J. Rickard and Mr. and Mrs. W. Strawson.

Youngest Ballerina With Company Appears as Coppellia, the Doll

BY DAWN VAN NORMAN

When the National Ballet Company goes on the stage at the Royal Theatre this evening . . . when the curtain rises for Coppelia . . . Victorians will see a pert little doll in a fluffy white dress.

Perhaps they will comment, "Isn't it wonderful the way they make-up a ballerina to look like a little girl!"

But this Coppellia is not just made-up to appear young—she is young, only 15 years of age.

Coppellia, in real life, Joan Stuart of Toronto, is simply bubbling with excitement over success with the famed ballet company.

Since her discovery at a summer school of dancing in Toronto last year, Joan has danced her way across the continent and she tells you rather confidentially, "I still get opening-night jitters. It isn't so bad on the second night, but a new city seems to make me nervous."

The young ballerina didn't "just drop" into the glory of dancing with a ballet company overnight. She started at the age of five and since then has studied and practiced until she tells you, "There were times when I thought I'd drop in my tracks. It's a strenuous business, you know."

At the age of seven she started to take leads in shows staged by her dancing teacher, and then the opportunity arose for her to take the first step to realize her ambition to be a professional dancer.

"When the ballet company asked me to join them I had no idea how much trouble I was to cause," she says with a mischievous twinkle in her eye.

It seems that her father didn't want to spoil her chances, yet he couldn't agree to Joan leaving school. The Toronto school board itself was even more insistent on this point.

"Only after long discussions and arrangements for a private tutor did I finally get my way," she tells you.

STUDIES DANCES

At home, Joan studies between her dancing classes and, while on the road, she completes work and sends it back to her tutor.

"You should try studying on a train sometime," she advises, "It's lots of fun."

Outlining an average day she explained, "We usually arrive in a city in the morning and after a scramble to get settled in our hotel we have breakfast. If we're quick we get a short time for shopping before classes."

In the afternoon the group often takes in a sightseeing tour and manages a short nap before dinner followed by a rehearsal at the theatre.

When asked if she missed having people her own age around, Joan replied, "Oh no! Everyone here is wonderful to me and ever so friendly."

She had no sooner finished saying this when a fellow dancer came up an asked, "Joan, did you have your breakfast?"

"Yes," she replied.

"What did you have?" he questioned again.

"Oatmeal," she said.

"All right," he said and then to me, "You know, we have to look after this little monkey. She's usually so busy she forgets a meal here and there."

For those who are attending the performance on Friday evening Joan will also be in the corps de ballet of Les Sylphides.

Joan Stuart, 15-year-old ballerina from Toronto, fits ballet shoes that are carrying her up ladder of success.

Auction Mechanics—At a social meeting of the Comitas Club, held at the St. Ann Street home of the president, Mrs. Don Taylor, guest speaker was Art Roberts, well-known auctioneer, who entertained the club with the story of the mechanics of an auction sale.

Perfume That Clings

Q.—Dear Claire: I adore perfume, but for some reason or other its fragrance just does not last on me. I have told several of my friends that I want a new perfume, but first I must find out about a lasting one.

—Mrs. A. W.

A.—A particularly good idea for women who claim that perfume does not "stay with them" is a brand new fragrance medium by Houbigant called Liquid Skin Sachet. It smoothes on the skin very easily and lingers longer because of its sachet base. It has a slower rate of diffusion and evaporation than any other type of fragrance. Try this Houbigant Liquid Skin Sachet. Available in 3 famous fragrances: Chantilly, Quelques Fleurs, Le Parfum Ideal. Only $2.

OF PERSONAL INTEREST

Mrs. E. Squires and Mrs. N. Lynn were co-hostesses at a recent shower honoring Miss Barbara Nourse, a November bride-elect, at the home of the latter on Millgrove Street. A corsage of red roses was presented to the honor guest and carnations to her mother, Mrs. L. Nourse, and the mother of the groom-elect, Mrs. W. Collins. Gifts were arranged in a decorated basket. Refreshments were served buffet style from a table centered with a shower cake inscribed with "showers of happiness." Invited guests were Mesdames I. Walker, I. Hollister, M. Ilott, A. Neirinck, G. MacPherson, L. Cummings, A. Meagher, S. Yates, E. Lord, M. Thompson, M. Fisher, Misses Patricia Petticrew, Norma Colyer, Bessie Nevay, Elaine McKay and Kathleen Collins.

Mrs. D. R. Kerley, 11 Phillion Place, was hostess on Tuesday evening at a surprise shower honoring her sister-in-law, Miss Betty Kerley. Upon arrival the bride-elect and her mother, Mrs. H. H. Kerley, were presented with corsages of chrysanthemums. To find the gifts, Miss Kerley went on a treasure hunt, taking clues from balloons which formed part of the decorations. Later refreshments were served from a dainty lace-covered table centred with a large double wedding bell cake. Among guests were Mesdames A. Corfield, A. Batstone, D. Paterson, W. Warren, M. Batstone, P. Frumento, D. Thompson, L. Clarkson, and Misses Kay Macham and Roberta Patterson.

TOLD TO TAKE LOVER

French Woman Tells Of Killing Husband

RHEIMS, France, Nov. 6 (Reuters)—Mrs. Yvonne Chevallier admitted in court here Wednesday that her cabinet minister husband had suggested she take a lover.

She made the statement during the emotion-packed first day of a murder trial which has been called by the French press "the most interesting crime of passion in years."

The attractive 41-year-old brunette has admitted killing her husband, Pierre Chevallier, mayor of Orleans and parliamentary leader of the leftist radical party.

He was shot in the bedroom of his home Aug. 12, 1951, shortly after being appointed secretary of state for technical education in Rene Pleven's short-lived government.

COULD GO FREE

Mrs. Chevallier claims she shot him in a fit of passion, and if she convinces the court, the legal minimum possible is a suspended sentence, allowing her to walk free from the court.

She fired five bullets into her husband's body and her case hinges on the fifth bullet. The first four were fired in a rush, she says. Then she walked downstairs, took her small son to the housekeeper, returned upstairs and fired the fifth shot. The prosecution holds this could not have been done out of passion.

But Mrs. Chevallier claims the last shot was an accident. She said she returned and knelt beside her husband's inert body and picked up the gun, which went off in her hand as she got to her feet.

Mrs. Chevallier collapsed, hiding her face in her arms, as Judge Raymond Jedin recalled her last quarrel with her husband over his alleged mistress, Mrs. Jeanne Perreau.

The judge quoted Chevallier as telling his wife: "I forbid you to say anything against that woman. We are going to divorce and you are going to stay in your filth. From today on I am not going to set foot in here."

Earlier the judge asked her if Chevallier had not suggested that she take a lover.

"Yes, he didn't love me any more," she said. "He had his apartment in Paris where I never set foot, and we never slept together."

Jean Perreau, a prominent businessman, testified that he was aware his wife was carrying on an affair with Chevallier, but he did not want a scandal. The packed court room burst into laughter when he said: "Chevallier seemed like a nice person."

His wife, wearing a jaunty green beret atop her flowing red hair, replied with a firm "no" when asked if she had ever felt any shame over the affair.

B.C. AND THE BALLET:—Being a "foreigner" to Victoria and British Columbia generally, at times being called a "stubble jumper," a "prairie rat" and other names not permitted to be printed in the Times, I was amazed to note that there are six members of the National Ballet Company native to this province.

Just for fun last night I started looking over the backgrounds of members of the Winnipeg Ballet and was thunderstruck to perceive the high proportion who were either native to the Island, B.C., or who have received their training in this province.

Among my friendships I treasure those of Britain's British-born, brilliant Gweneth Lloyd and Mrs. Betty Hayes Farrally. As most of you know it was Miss Lloyd who founded a distinctive Canadian culture on the bleak prairies in 1938, the Winnipeg Ballet, which has grown to become more national than its name implies. Not only is the company distinguished as one of the top ballet corps in North America, but it is something of which all Canadians can be justly proud. The ballet program sent by Miss Lloyd was for the performance before Rt. Hon. Vincent Massey, governor-general, a man who possibly has the cultural interests of Canada at heart more than anyone else.

But what struck me most forcibly was the number of British Columbians dancing that night before Mr. Massey and a packed house. I'll run down their names in order as they appeared on the program.

There was Jean Stoneham, native of Edinburgh, Scotland, who took her preliminary training in Vancouver; Bill McGrath from Cumberland. Bill joined the ballet last year, is a graduate of Victoria's Wynne Shaw dance studios and five seasons of dancing with Theatre Under the Stars, including the Wizard of Oz and the Red Mill, and is hailed as one of the country's finest young dancers.

Another young dancer is Beverly Ivings who was with the Wynne Shaw school for 11 years. In addition to three seasons with Theatre Under the Stars she also appeared with the Victoria symphony; Gordon Wales, although born in Medicine Hat moved at an early age to Vancouver where he studied dancing and wound up with T.U.T.S. before joining the Winnipeg company.

It was the same with Marina Katronis, born in Lethbridge of Greek parents. She was educated in Vancouver, danced for T.U.T.S., and shared the lead with Bill McGrath in Wizard of Oz. Now only 16 she is thought to be one of the most versatile dancers in the ballet.

Victor Duret, a native of Regina, studied with Wynne Shaw and before going to Winnipeg appeared with Jimmy Durante and also T.U.T.S. Sheilagh Henderson went from Kelowna to Winnipeg in 1949 via T.U.T.S. Peggy Rae Norman was born in Powell River, studied in Vancouver, danced also in Theatre Under the Stars. Josephine Andrews, who claims Vancouver her home, only joined the ballet in September of this year after having danced the lead role "Laurie" in Oklahoma. Gloria Campbell was born in Glasgow but came to Canada at 11. She, too, joined the Winnipeg company via Vancouver training.

In the Winnipeg Ballet are 24 members. Of these 10 are either native to B.C. or have been trained in the province.

Surely that is a cultural record of which British Columbia and those concerned can be justly proud.

TWO WIVES, 8 CHILDREN

N.Y. Truck Driver Led Double Life for 7 Years

TROY, N.Y., Nov. 6 (AP).—The death of a 31-year-old truck-driver has unfolded the tale of his two wives, four children by each wife, and two homes 60 miles apart.

Eugene Wood's seven years of double life were revealed Wednesday, when Mrs. Anna Wood of Saugerties and Mrs. Jean Wood of Schagnticoke tangled over his estate.

Wood was killed last September 30 in a collision at Paramus, N.J., Anna's lawyer, Max Goldstein, said that until then neither wife knew about the other.

Goldstein said Wood worked it this way: He drove for a trucking company which ships produce to New York City and New Jersey. On trips, Wood stayed with the wife and four children in Saugerties, about 45 miles south of here.

Otherwise he was at home with his family in Schagnticoke, about 15 miles north of Troy.

Goldstein said Wood married Anna in 1941, Jean in 1945.

WOUNDED FOUR TIMES

Vivid Battle Story By Winner of M.C.

BY BILL BOSS

WITH THE CANADIANS IN KOREA, Nov. 6 (CP) — Lieut. Russ Gardner, tall, handsome Military Cross winner from Arnprior, Ont., who has been wounded four times in Korea, isn't sure he killed six Chinese in the battle of Gibraltar Spur as his comrades reported.

But he's positive he mowed down five of them with the tommy-gun he is reputed to take to bed with him.

Wounded in the right arm and both legs by shell fragments in the October 23 engagement, the 25-year-old former Algonquin Park summer-time guide was well enough to sit up in a field dressing station and tell his story of the battle. He suffered his first wound in an earlier action.

When the Chinese began pouring in shells at the rate of 100 a minute at 6 p.m. October 23, Gardner and Lieut. John Clark of Beebe, Que., were talking with Major F. L. Cohen of Ottawa and Pembroke, Ont., commander of "Baker" company of the Royal Canadian Regiment's 1st Battalion, which suffered heavy casualties in the engagement.

"When the shelling began we went to ground in the ammo dump—and we really went to ground," Lieut. Gardner said.

"The shelling buried everything. Everything was blown in. Everything was smashed to blazes.

"When the barrage was over I went around kicking fellows' behinds to get them into position to defend themselves. I went around to the rear and arranged with Clark to cover that side while I took on the front. I had 10 or 15 men.

"The fellows fought very well as long as they had ammo. That was about 15 minutes. I ended up with the only weapon still working among the five men in our bunker.

"I'm quite sure I killed five, in fact I'm positive I killed five Chinese.

"The others had been firing at point-blank range, so they must have killed some."

When his ammunition was expended, Lieut. Gardner slithered stealthily back into the main defenses.

The R.C.R. sent in its first counter-attack, under Lieut. Mel Feraday of Toronto, at 1.15 a.m. the morning of October 24.

Lieut. Feraday said: "We were about three-quarters of the way up when we were fired on by machine-guns. At a conservative estimate there were 14 of them. They started to throw grenades, too, and we retired to regroup."

The second attack—a co-ordinated program with Lieut. Feraday's platoon on the left and one under Lieut. M. F. Goldie of Pembroke, Ont., on the right—went in without a shot being fired.

Archbishop Prefers 'Controlled' Television

YORK, Eng., Nov. 6 (AP)—The Archbishop of York, the Church of England's second-highest official, today urged continued government control over both television and radio.

"Few of those who have experienced in America commercialized broadcasting or television would wish to see this system reproduced in England," Dr. Cyril Garbett told the York Diocesan Conference. "The greatest hope of avoiding the misuse of television," he said, "is to allow it to continue as at present a national service under the control of the B.B.C."

Parliament recently voted the B.B.C. a new 10-year lease over radio and TV in Britain, but left the door open to further commercial programs by private operators when broadcasting facilities are available.

The archbishop said "it would be foolish to deny that television can be used for evil as well as for good. Like almost every other new invention, it brings with it possible dangers."

He said TV viewing "may occupy far too much time" and that there is "a danger that television may become a substitute for intelligent thought and reading."

The Statue of Liberty was unveiled Oct. 28, 1887.

Taxes Marked For Pensions Rise Steadily

OTTAWA (CP) — Tax collections are beginning to close the gap between the amount available in Canada's old-age security fund and the sum needed to cover pension payments.

The fund was established Jan. 1, 1952, to provide pensions of $40 a month to all Canadians 70 and over. By Aug. 31 the fund owed the federal treasury $121,926,000.

However, the latest treasury report disclosed that the rate of indebtedness is slowing down as tax receipts begin to reach the fund.

The fund started from scratch. Three special taxes were earmarked for the fund and were calculated to make it self-supporting eventually. A two-per-cent sales tax and a two-per-cent tax on corporation profits went into effect Jan. 1. A two-per-cent tax on personal incomes went into effect July 1.

DEBT INCREASED

From Jan. 1 to March 31—the end of the last fiscal year—the fund ran up a debt of $55,000,000. The debt was increased by $66,926,000 from April 1 to August 31.

Since January approximately $208,000,000 has been paid out in pensions to more than 660,000 Canadians 70 and over. The tax payments into the fund amount to a little more than $86,000,000.

Treasury reports showed how the amount the fund has has to borrow from the government has been decreasing each month.

In June, the fund had to borrow $13,329,000. In July, the amount dropped to $9,811,000 and in August to $7,956,000.

No forecast has been made on when the fund will become self-supporting. The operations of the fund are due to be reviewed when the 1953-54 budget is being prepared.

The government then will decide whether any additional taxes are needed to support the fund.

Posture, Overweight Hit Osteoarthritics

By EDWIN P. JORDAN, M.D.

Too many people become unnecessarily alarmed when they are told that they have osteoarthritis because they fear serious pain or crippling. Actually, this condition also called hypertrophic or degenerative arthritis should not be called arthritis at all. It is a mild degeneration or wearing out of some of the structures which make up the joints.

Exactly what causes osteoarthritis is not entirely understood. There may be an inherited factor; that is, the cartillage and bone of persons in some families may be particularly susceptible to early degeneration.

Repeated injury also seems to promote the development of this condition. Poor posture, disturbances of blood circulation, and overweight are other conditions which contribute to its development.

The end joints of the fingers frequently become enlarged. This is often accompanied by a certain amount of stiffness and soreness, though this usually disappears after the joints have been loosened up. These enlargements are common in later years and are called Heberden's nodes.

Other joints commonly involved are the knees, shoulders, elbows and spine. Sometimes degeneration may be pretty well advanced without producing any noticeable pain or stiffness. Osteoarthritis is often found accidentally when an X-ray film is taken for something else.

The treatment of degenerative changes in the joints includes general measures aimed at relieving the discomfort and improving the overall physical condition. Local measures designed to relieve the involved joints and prevent or correct any difficulties which are present are also used. Occupational strains should be eliminated whenever possible and posture should be corrected.

REDUCING IS ADVISABLE

Because so many people with osteoarthritis are fat, reducing is often advisable. This is especially important if the knees are involved. If they have to carry 200 pounds when they have the frame to carry 130, they are obviously overloaded.

People with osteoarthritis are rarely badly incapacitated and usually move about, though often with some discomfort. They do need frequent rest periods, for this seems to relieve some of the stiff feeling.

$100 Reward For Slayer of Valuable Goat

A $100 reward is offered by an unidentified Victorian for information leading to the arrest and conviction of a person who stole and killed a valuable Saanen goat by cutting its throat, it was announced today by the S.P.C.A.

The offer was made through the S.P.C.A.

The goat, which was in kid, was stolen last Wednesday from the barn of Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Smart, 3965 Glanford, carried about 200 yards over a neighbor's fence, killed and left.

Saanich police, who are working on the case, said today they have not yet sufficient evidence to make an arrest.

STEAL BY THE HALF-DOZEN

LELAND, Mich. (UP).—State police were asked to hunt for thieves who did their stealing "by the numbers" at the Sugar Loaf Mountain ski club. Officers reported they stole six of everything—six pairs of skis, six pairs of ski poles and six pairs of ski boots.

Professor Says Canadians 'Very Good Second Bests'

PORT ARTHUR, Nov. 6 (CP)—Dr. A. R. M. Lower of Queen's University Wednesday described Canadians as "very good second bests" and said the city of Toronto was an "amorphous mass."

He spoke to Thunder Bay Historical Society and other groups. Later in an interview he said Canadians needed a greater sense of community or they would be absorbed by the "real community across the line."

Professor Lower said his remarks applied largely to British Canadians and Toronto was a typical example of British Canada. "I have no doubt there is a real community feeling in French Canada," he said.

"South of the border they don't go around boasting of their Scottish origin."

Oak Bay Council To Meet Servants

Oak Bay Municipal Employees' Local No. 311, has asked the council of that municipality for a meeting concerning negotiations for changes in the present working agreements. Council will set a date and recommend that meetings with the police and fire commissions by the employees of those departments should be arranged.

Some of the changes sought by the union concerned are the payment of an M.S.A. contract on a 50-50 basis and maintenance of membership clause under the Rand Formula. Outside staff will ask for one additional statuary holiday to be recognized by the municipality, while police employees will ask that the 40-hour week come into effect.

Only the firefighters will ask for increases in salary.

Change of Mind on Coronation; Officials May Let TV Shoot Works

LONDON, Nov. 6 (Reuters)—Televiewers in Britain may see the actual crowning of Queen Elizabeth in Westminster Abbey next June 2 after all.

The Coronation joint executive committee, responsible for Coronation planning, Wednesday issued a statement that it had "reviewed proposals" for filming and televising the ritual.

Chairman of the committee is the Earl Marshal, the Duke of Norfolk, whose statement last month banning TV cameras from the two-hour crowning ceremony caused a public outcry. An estimated 12,000,000 Britons would have watched the ceremony on TV.

Prime Minister Churchill, whose cabinet approved the ban, later told parliament the decision might be modified.

It is expected television cameras will be allowed to record everything but the more scared moments of the service—such as the anointing—and close-up shots will be forbidden.

Workmen's hammers sounded today along the Mall—the stately tree-lined avenue leading to Buckingham Palace—as construction began on the first of 23 grandstands on the Coronation route.

When completed, they will give more than 30,000 persons a close-up view of the panorama.

Early next year work will begin on more stands along other parts of the six-mile processional route which the Queen will take on her way back to the palace from Westminster Abbey.

The seats—expected to total more than 90,000—will be allocated to official organizations and Commonwealth visitors.

With a little less than seven months to go before the big day, London hotels are already booked solid. Prices being charged by private owners for seats and hotel rooms along the route has become a major issue.

Lord Jowitt, Lord Chancellor in the late Labor government, said today it was a "gross libel" to say that hotels are charging excessive prices for accommodation during the Coronation season.

Socialist Elaine Burton told the House of Commons last week that travel agents have complained that London hotels are demanding £1,000 a week for a single room overlooking the route.

The Girl Friend & I were having a dish of tea & a toasted bun in the Hudson's Bay Co. "You know," I said, "this place is surely different to when I worked here. The restaurant was up on the top floor, and I didn't even know YOU existed." "No," she smiled, "but I'll bet you knew of the existence of some OTHER gal about here . . . like that one over there fer instance." I turned about, and suddenly I was back on the third floor. It was more years ago than I care to remember. I was saying to this pretty cashier. "How's about YOU coming with ME to-nite??? They're clearing all the rugs off this floor, and the company is throwin' a dance right here." "No kiddin'," remarked she with the shape. "Well, . . . sure . . . imagine . . . dancing right up here with all those Axminsters." "Have some more tea," said the G.F., and I said "tea???? " "Oh yeah . . . . tea . . . yes . . . I guess I will." Suddenly she said, "I think I'll go upstairs & buy a hat . . . I just feel like I need a new hat . . . c'mon." I always like getting on those escalators. I like to stand very close & suddenly get swept off my feet. I do the same thing at the top, only it's a little different . . . I like to kinda get pitched off, or shuffled off . . . just a queer quirk I guess. The girl friend picked up a cute little bonnet, twirled it about & put it down. I determined right away I wasn't going to be like a lot of smarty Alec husbands & start putting on hats, so I just wandered about, picking up one here & there, and then I went over & sat on a chair. I watched a sales girl "closing a deal" and then greeting another client, and I could see selling a hat was a lot different to selling furniture. In the first place the "approach" is different. It is a lot more casual. The sales girl waits until the client has jammed on a few, & then she says, sort of passing by, "my,—but THAT'S pretty," and lets it go at that. If the customer shows the slightest interest, the girl lingers about, and if she gets any encouragement at all, she goes to a deep bin, and pulls out "a little number that just came in this morning." The G.F. jammed it on, and twisted herself every which way and handed it back. Nothing fazed that sales girl, and she was just as polite and long suffering after half an hour as she was when we started. While I was sitting on my chair, a man in a raincoat came up close to me, and fingered some artificial flowers. I wondered if he trimmed his wife's hats? A lady in a tweed suit was wandering about without any hat . . . she seemed sort of desperate & was just going to say, "For Pete's sake . . . that last one you tried on," when I saw the G.F. had finally lingered under a red tam corduroy, so I knew "this was it." I got up off my chair, went over as she was looking for her bag. "I just wanted something to wear at the hockey games, or to grab when it's raining . . . now let's go down & look for a scarf . . . I can't wear THIS scarf with a red hat." Going down is more fun than going up. Thanks for the very nice tea, and the lovely ride.

THE CAINE MUTINY

(Willis Seward Keith, an ensign aboard the U.S.S. Caine, an old destroyer converted into a minesweeper at Pearl Harbor, was finding life under a new captain, Queeg, vastly different from that under his easy-going but efficient predecessor.

(Willie, a Princeton graduate, had left his girl, a night club singer, his wealthy mother's home and his own "career" as an entertainer to join the navy via the midshipmen school to escape being drafted into the army.

(He was still happy to be aboard ship instead of carrying a rifle in the army although he had built up a deep hatred for the Caine's first skipper. Queeg, he hoped, would be better.

(But Willie and his shipmates, notably Gorton, the executive officer, and Lieut. Keefer, Willie's immediate superior, were soon jolted into the realization that Queeg was a stickler for the letter of the law as represented by navy regulations and that life aboard the Caine was changed.

Seventeenth installment from the book THE CAINE MUTINY, copyright, 1951, by Herman Wouk. Distributed by Doubleday Syndicate.

Next day Willie went to his post on the bridge as junior officer of the deck shortly after sunrise. Captain Queeg came up to the bridge, brisk and smiling, with a pleasant greeting for each sailor and officer. "Good morning, Captain. All lines singled up, sir," Willie said, saluting smartly.

"Ah, good morning. Thank you, thank you, Willie." Queeg leaned over the bulwark, taking a quick look at the mooring lines. The Caine was tied to the Moulton, which was secured fore and aft to buoys.

"Tight squeeze, hey?" Queeg said jovially to Maryk and Gorton, who stood together on the port wing, awaiting with interest the new captain's first demonstration of ship handling. The two officers nodded respectfully. Queeg called, "Take in all lines!"

The manila ropes came snaking aboard the Caine. "All lines taken in, sir!" said the telephone talker.

"Kay." Queeg glanced around the wheelhouse, wetted his lips, and said, "Well, let's go. All engines back one third!"

The ship vibrated, and things began to happen so fast that Willie couldn't tell exactly what went wrong or why. As the Caine moved backward the sharp fluke of the decked anchor came ripping down along the forecastle of the other ship. It gashed a jagged hole in the Moulton's bridge with a ghastly metallic screech. Captain Queeg shouted a tangle of wheel and engine orders; the stacks vomited billows of black smoke which poured down on the bridge; there ensued a few moments of wild yelling and running around in the smoky gloom. Then it was all over. The Caine was stuck fast by the stern in the mud on the other side of the loch, canted over about ten degrees.

"Well, well, beginner's luck, hey?" Queeg said smiling, in the shocked quiet that followed. "Mr. Gorton, lay aft and find out if there's been any damage." He sent a blinker message to Captain Sammis apologizing for the mishap. The executive officer returned in a few minutes, and reported that there was no visible damage to the hull, and the propellers were buried in mud to their hubs.

"Kay, a little mud bath never hurt a propeller," Queeg said. "Shine 'em up a little, maybe." He was looking out toward the harbor.

"Guess we'll have to send a grounding report dispatch to ServPac, Captain," Gorton said. "Shall I—"

"Maybe we will and then again maybe we won't," Queeg said. "See that tug? Over there by the point? Give him a call on your blinker light."

The tug obligingly turned out of the main channel and came chugging into West Loch. A towline was soon rigged, and the Caine was easily pulled off the mud. "So much for that," Queeg said affably to Gorton. "And so much for your grounding report, Burt. No sense getting old ServPac in an uproar over nothing, hey? All engines ahead one third."

He conned the ship confidently across the harbor to the fueling dock where they were to spend the day taking on oil, food and ammunition. He tore in toward the dock at a sharp angle at fifteen knots, but in the very last seconds Queeg backed down emergency full, and the Caine slowed, shuddering fearfully, and dropped into its berthing space as neatly as a New York taxicab parking.

* * *

That afternoon Willie was in the coding room writing a letter to May, the last before the start of the voyage.

A radioman knocked at his open doorway. "Pardon me, Mr. Keith. Action from ComServPac. Just come over the harbor circuit."

"Sure, give it here." Willie went to the coding machine and broke the dispatch. "A written report is desired explaining grounding of Caine this morning in West Loch. Include explanation of failure to report grounding via dispatch to this command."

He brought the decode to the captain's room. Queeg was sitting in his underwear at the desk, working over a pile of official mail. When he read the message he sat upright with a loud squeak of the swivel chair. He stared at the sheet for a long time while Willie tried to think of a good excuse to sneak out of the room.

At last Queeg picked up the steel balls from his desk and rolled them rapidly, eyeing the dispatch. "Well, hell, he wants a grounding report. We'll give him a grounding report. Spruce up, Willie, and stand by to deliver it by hand. Seems to have his pants on fire for some reason."

"Aye aye, sir."

* * *

That night Willie was shaken out of his sleep by Rabbit. "Sorry to bother you, Keith," the OOD said, "but we just got an action from ComServPac."

"Right, Rab." Willie pulled himself wearily out of the clip shack and went to the wardroom. While he was clacking away at the coding machine Gorton came out of his room naked and watched over his shoulder, yawning. The words formed one by one: "Caine departure Pago Pago canceled. Moulton replace Caine convoy duty. Caine remain Pearl target-towing duty. Obtain towing gear target repair base."

"Now what the hell?" said Gorton. "What kind of quick switch is that? I guess I'd better take it to the captain."

6-Day Store Week May Be Aim Of Organized Shop Employees

For all the Retail Clerks Union and the Meat Cutters Union are concerned Victoria stores can stay open six full days a week.

This was made clear to the Victoria and District Trades and Labor Council Wednesday night when John Aubrey, business agent of the retail clerks and a delegate from the meat cutters announced their organizations intended to press for a 40-hour week for store employees leaving it to the store owner to open and close as he saw fit.

The retail clerks' representative said the retailer was in business to sell goods and the union was trying to make the best deal it could for his employees. There should be no restrictions of sales by forced closure.

"The small businessman is behind a current move to close stores in Victoria for one full day every week. He can close himself but he wants to force all others to close and is entitled to no special protection in this respect," Mr. Aubrey said.

Among other reasons he advanced in favor for the six-day shopping week were the fact that clerks would probably find less pressure placed on them in the way of sales quotas, and that they would have time to do some shopping on their own account.

The Republic of the Philippines was proclaimed July 4, 1946.

ENGLAND'S ANGER SMOLDERS

Centuries Fail to Erase Remembered Indignity

This story first came from England in 1606 . . .

A plot of treason and death was foiled here Nov. 5 bare moments before a flame would have been applied to explosives stored beneath the House of Parliament. Death of the sovereign was intended.

Apprehended in the gloom of the cellars beneath seat of government was a man described as a dangerous hireling. Evidence has been secured that will prove he was part of a vicious ring which planned the destruction of Parliament. Though the man was an Englishman, it is alleged that he went to Spain in his youth and served in the Spanish army. Cited there for his ruthlessness, he was smuggled into England and disguised as a servant in a home adjoining the House of Lords.

Aided by cohorts, he had mined an entrance to the cellar of the Parliament Buildings and loaded it with high explosives.

The man was grilled in an effort to discover the names of his sponsors. It is established the ring represents a minority religious group against whom legislation has been passed, which greatly curtails their activities.

A supreme court judge predicted that the rage of the English people would be so great at the attempted outrage that public opinion would demand an execution. He foresaw a wave of effigy-burning.

The man's name is Guy Fawkes, English-born in 1570.

Oak Bay's Works Bill $325,000 in 3 Months

Municipal works program for Oak Bay entails the expenditure of $325,000 in the next three months, Councillor R. B. Wilson reported for the finance committee to the municipal council Wednesday.

Water collections were down this year, Mr. Wilson added . . . "something we find hard to understand after the hot dry summer we have just had."

BRIDGE LESSON

—by Oswald Jacoby

Perhaps the slam contract in today's hand was too ambitious. Nevertheless, it is difficult to find fault with South's jump to six hearts. North would not go to five clubs without some strength, and there would be a play for a slam if North had as little as both black kings.

South justified his ambitious bidding by careful play. After winning the first trick with the ace of diamonds, South thought deeply about the best way to bring in twelve tricks.

An optimist might draw trumps and try to cash the entire spade suit. With the spades breaking badly, however, South would have to fall back on a single club finesse, and he would wind up losing two club tricks.

The actual declarer drew three rounds of trumps, discarding a diamond from dummy. East likewise discarded a diamond.

South now led the nine of spades from his hand and overtook with dummy's ten of spades! This play gave East a problem immediately. He finally judged the situation correctly and decided that South would have twelve ice-cold tricks if he (East) won this trick with the jack of spades.

This was quite accurate. South would win any return and overtake the queen of spades in dummy to discard three clubs on dummy's remaining spades.

When East refused to win the spade trick with his jack, South realized that East had made a fine play in order to stop the spades from becoming established. He therefore led a club from dummy and finessed the jack from his own hand.

West won with the queen of clubs and returned a spade. Declarer carefully won in dummy with the king of spades in order to discard the deuce of clubs. As South had expected, the spades did not break; and he therefore fell back on a second club finesse. When the ten of clubs held the next trick, South's slam contract was home.

IN TUNE WITH THE TIMES

By RAY SIDAWAY

MacDonald Carey, star of the new N.B.C. radio adventure series, "Jason and the Golden Fleece," is currently completing "The Thirteenth Man," a movie for release by United Artists.

"Double Or Nothing's" quizmaster, Walter O'Keefe, will join other top Hollywood celebrities on the kickoff show for the U.S. Community Chest on Nov. 10.

The all-star variety show, which will originate from Hollywood's El Capitan Theatre, will be emceed by Art Linkletter.

There will be more about this later.

There's a real weird one on tonight's edition of "Suspense."

Elliot Lewis' production of "Frankenstein" is one of the most frightening programs to hit the airways in many a moon.

Herbert Marshall stars as the brilliant scientists who creates the monster, portrayed by John Frees.

Although Frees is the title character, he doesn't speak a word throughout the broadcast. A series of grunts are used in lieu of words.

CJVI will air the broadcast.

CJOR and CJVI will carry broadcasts of the Montreal-Toronto hockey game from Montreal tonight. This should be a thriller as Maurice "Rocket" Richard seeks to surpass Nels Stewart's lifetime scoring record of 324 goals. Richard has tied "Old Poison's" record and unless he hits a slump, should pass it tonight.

Radio times and programs are furnished by stations and networks and are subject to last minute changes. The Times assumes no responsibility for inaccurate listings.

TENDERS
SEALED TENDERS, addressed to the undersigned and marked "Tender for Construction of Buildings at Port Hardy" will be received up to 12 o'clock noon, Tuesday, November 18, 1952 for the construction of a rawinsonde tower and office building, and two staff dwellings at the airport at Port Hardy, B.C.
Plans, specifications, labour conditions, contract form, form of tender and return tender envelope may be obtained on application to the District Airway Engineer, Department of Transport, 401 Winch Building, Vancouver, B.C., upon receipt of an accepted cheque made payable to the Receiver General of Canada for the sum of $25.00. This cheque will be returned upon the return of the plans and specifications in good condition. Additional information, required with regard to interpretation of plans and specifications may be obtained from the aforementioned District Airway Engineer.
Each tender must be accompanied by a security deposit equal to ten per cent (10%) of the tender price, in the form of a certified cheque on a Canadian chartered bank, made payable to the order of the Receiver General of Canada, or Government of Canada bonds at par, or bonds of the Canadian National Railway or its constituent companies unconditionally guaranteed by the government of Canada at par, which security deposit will be forfeited in the event of a tenderer refusing to enter into a contract on the basis of his tender if called upon to do so, or failing to satisfactorily complete such a contract. Cheques of unsuccessful tenderers will be returned.
Any tender not accompanied by a security deposit as described will not be considered.
The Department does not bind itself to accept the lowest or any tender.
F. T. COLLINS,
Secretary.
Department of Transport,
Ottawa, Ontario, October 27, 1952.

This Time the Sink Goes, Too—

Bombers from the Carrier Princeton, stationed in Korean waters, have been pasting North Korean targets with everything but the kitchen sink, and Navy Lieut. Carl B. Austin of Woodburn, Ore., thinks it's about time the Communists are given the full treatment. Lieut. Austin is shown aboard the carrier, as he readies 1,000 pounds of "drain cleaner" for Pyongyang, North Korea's capital city.

G.O.P. Victory in Keeping With World Swing Away From Socialism

By CARL C. CRANMER
Associated Press Staff Writer

Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's victory in the United States, putting an end to 20 years of new deal-fair deal administration, conforms to a swing from the cycle of social welfare experiment in most of the English-speaking world.

Until the Republican landslide in Tuesday's election, the most startling reversal for Socialism was in England, where Winston Churchill's Conservatives captured a slim parliamentary margin just over a year ago. There the Socialists of the Labor party were thrown out after six years of sweeping social and economic revolution and nationalizing of industry.

The turn in the English-speaking world really was called by the voters of New Zealand three years ago. A Labor government which had pioneered a wave of advanced social legislation was turned out after 14 years in office.

The following month, Australia's voters also turned against their Labor government that had been in power since 1941.

France, which had Communists in its first post-war cabinets, has gradually been shifting to the right. The Communists have been displaced as the first party in the National Assembly by the right-wing Degaulists.

Italy's post-war political history has been much the same. Communists and Socialists, who together got nearly 40 per cent of the seats in the constituent assembly in 1946, dropped to 31 per cent in 1948. Since 1948 Italy has been ruled by a coalition dominated by Premier Alcide de Gasperi's Christian Democrats.

Belgium's Social Christians finally got the upper hand in the 1950 elections after a succession of Socialist and coalition governments.

Denmark's minority Social Democratic government gave way in 1950, after three years' rule, to a Conservative-Agrarian coalition which made gains in the September elections.

Norway still has a Labor government, and Sweden still has a Social Democratic (Socialist) government.

West German Borders Plagued By Smugglers

BONN, Germany (AP)—A hot little war is raging along West Germany's frontiers between German police and legions of smugglers flooding the country with contraband coffee and cigarettes.

Police say the illicit trade involves hundreds of smugglers ranging from lone operators who sneak across the border to international gangs operating fleets of trucks.

The West German government reports that smuggling nicks the national budget over $100,000,000 a year in lost taxes.

Gun battles between the police and the coffee and cigarette runners flare almost nightly along the frontier.

After powerful, coffee-laden automobiles tried to run down several customs agents, police announced they would shoot any smugglers refusing to surrender.

In one battle on Lake Constance on the Swiss-German border, a hail of police bullets forced two speedboats laden with 6,700 pounds of green coffee beans and cigarettes to make for shore.

Customs police have killed three smugglers and wounded eight others in the last six months.

In Aachen, on the German-Belgian frontier, a special smugglers' court has been set up to handle the large number of customs offenders.

In one month the tribunal fined 210 smugglers, while 144 others were tried in regular courts along the Dutch and Belgian frontiers.

German jails along the border are so crammed with smugglers that new arrests cannot be accommodated.

New Mau Mau Murder, Big Revolt Feared

NAIROBI, Kenya, (Reuters)—Police announced here today that another Mau Mau murder had been discovered at Nanyuki, 125 miles north of Nairobi.

The body of an African named Ndundo Dishon, last seen a week ago, was found in a thicket where a Mau Mau ceremony had been held. The police said 10 suspects had been arrested.

Police also reported today that 31 Africans were arrested at a Mau Mau meeting two nights ago in bush country near Sagari. Mau Mau means "the hidden ones."

But generally the situation was quiet though tense in this British colony, threatened by a native rebellion.

Since authorities opened their campaign of mass arrests in a "get-tough" policy against the Mau Mau, thousands of tribesmen have fled from the cities to the mountains. There is widespread fear they may be organizing a revolt there.

An air spotter pilot returned to base today to report he had seen a gathering of about 100 tribesmen in a clearing in the mountains. The tribesmen come from the Kikuyu tribe, Kenya's most advanced.

OOPS—SORRY!

ANNA, Ill., (UP)—Ruel J. Keller, visiting a friend here, complained to a stranger from St. Louis, visiting the same friend, about the general wretchedness of the St. Louis police force. The stranger turned out to be a St. Louis policeman.

HE CAN'T SWALLOW IT — Ronnie Welch, 22 months old, of Long Beach, Calif., was so impressed by the Eisenhower campaign, that he swallowed a small campaign button, literally eating up the publicity. Hearing of the mishap, General Dwight Eisenhower sent his young supporter a large button that Ronnie can't swallow.

Socred Candidate's Charges 'Unfounded'

A Victoria firm of auditors has certified as "absolutely correct" an account of Social Credit election campaign expenses in the city.

The report was submitted Wednesday night to a special executive meeting of the Victoria Social Credit Constituency Association.

The expense records submitted by secretary-treasurer Mrs. Cecily Brown, were challenged at the association's annual meeting Oct. 20 by Mrs. Lydia Arsens, unsuccessful candidate in Victoria last June.

At the time Mrs. Arsens said she had figures to prove that Mrs. Brown's statement was incorrect.

"Mrs. Arsen's accusation was completely unfounded," Mrs. Brown reported today. "The auditors told the meeting the account was in order."

C.P.R. Confirms Ship Purchase

VANCOUVER, Nov. 6 (CP).—Spokesmen for the C.P.R. here confirmed today that the company is contemplating purchase of a $4,000,000 passenger ship from a Boston line to replace the Princess Kathleen.

The Kathleen was lost September 7 when she struck a reef and sank off Lena Point, Alaska. There was no loss of life. (See story page 13.)

Megan Lloyd George Quits Liberals

LONDON, Nov. 6 (Reuters).—Lady Megan Lloyd George today broke her long parliamentary connections with the Liberal party which her famed Welsh father, David Lloyd George, led as Prime Minister in the First World War.

Declining an invitation to run for parliament as a Liberal, she criticized the party for "a drift towards the right."

Alleged Salmon Poachers Held

DUNCAN, Nov. 6.—Two New Westminster commercial fishermen, William Hector McDonald and George Miller, were arrested in Cowichan Bay today and charged with netting in a prohibited area.

Inspector A. A. Sherman, who made the arrest, had an encounter with McDonald on September 14, 1951, when shots were fired. McDonald, with two others, was arrested and later fined $100 for illegal fishing in Cowichan Bay. On January 16, McDonald was acquitted by Mr. Justice L. A. Hanna, in Duncan, of a charge of shooting at the inspector while the latter was "in the course of discharging his duties."

India Said Acting on Korea Truce

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y., Nov. 6 (AP).—An Indian source said today that India has been sounding out Red China on a possible way to break the Korean prisoner-of-war deadlock.

The source indicated that if the Peiping government agrees with India's ideas, India will soon offer a new compromise solution on the issue to the United Nations.

CRASHED THREE TIMES

Bush Pilot Tells Harrowing Story

FAIRBANKS, Alaska, Nov. 6 (AP)—A bush pilot walked out of the Alaska wilderness Wednesday and told a harrowing story of a six-day battle to reach civilization after his plane was forced down in a snowstorm.

Joseph Cook's story was one of desperation and frustration—of how he made a last-ditch takeoff from a strip he hacked out with a hatchet, only to run out of gas in flight.

The Alaska flier, formerly of Madison, Wis., had been sought since he vanished Oct. 30.

As many as 20 planes had joined in the search for him in hazardous weather.

Cook said he landed on a sandbar when he lost his way in snow flurries a week ago.

He got into the air again, but snow forced him down on a hilltop. His plane was damaged.

For four days he worked with a hatchet to clear a 1,500-foot strip through brush. Then he made three takeoff attempts. Each time the plane skidded into brush and suffered more damage.

Although the fabric on the plane was badly ripped he managed to get into the air on the fourth attempt.

Cook said he was in sight of the Yukon River when the plane ran out of gas.

"I thought I could glide to the river but without the engine, the damaged plane dropped like a streamlined rock," he said. He crashed and was thrown clear.

Although exhausted and bruised, he walked two days and two nights.

After reaching the Yukon River bank across from the village of Tanana, he dropped exhausted and fired a pistol.

A villager heard the shots and picked Cook up. His condition was reported as good.

FAIRWEATHER ESCAPES DEATH ON GALLOWS

Illegal Price Fixing Alleged

$50,000,000 Canadian Business Charged After Four-Year Probe

OTTAWA, Nov. 6 (CP).—Virtually the entire $50,000,000 fine paper industry in Canada was accused of operating an illegal price-fixing combine in a report made public today by Justice Minister Garson.

Forty-four companies — seven paper-making mills and 37 merchant companies spread from Vancouver to Halifax — were named in the report by Combines Commissioner T. D. MacDonald, prepared after four years of investigation.

Mr. MacDonald alleged that the companies used "loyalty" discounts and other means to restrict competition and combined in one or more groups to maintain prices at fixed levels "detrimental to the public interest."

He suggested that tariffs on imports be cut as one way of infusing new competition into the industry which allegedly had maintained the combines in one way or another for the last 17 years.

CONSIDER PROSECUTION

Mr. Garson, in making the 200,000-word, 433-page report public, said he will seek legal advice before deciding whether to launch court prosecutions against the accused.

He already has under consideration a previous report alleging the existence of a combine among 19 rubber companies. A decision as to whether prosecution will be launched against this group likely will be made Friday.

Today's report was made under provisions of combines investigation legislation which was superseded Nov. 1 by a new law. Under the former law, Mr. MacDonald investigated alleged combines and reported directly to the justice minister. The new law provides for a three-man board to hear argument from accused companies and persons before a report is made.

Fine papers include paper used in publishing books, magazines, writing paper and envelopes, but it does not include newsprint.

1,500 Airmen Planned for Comox Base

By ROY THORSEN
Times Staff Reporter

COMOX, B.C., Nov. 6—Comox air base, now being expanded and renovated, is the biggest R.C.A.F. operational base west of the Great Lakes, and when fully manned, will have upwards of 1,500 personnel.

At a briefing here this morning, Group Capt. G. S. Austin, station commander, reported he expected to have a squadron of CF-100 jet fighters some time next year. At present seven Lancaster bombers are based at Comox.

Extensive renovations include completely new married quarters for station personnel, which will "compare favorably to anything on 'civvy street'," according to Group Capt. Austin.

Sommers Critical of Alcan Deal

PRINCE RUPERT, B.C., Nov. 6 (CP)—Lands and Forests Minister Robert E. Sommers today in an interview criticized the former B.C. government for permitting the Aluminum Company of Canada to flood the Tweedsmuir Park area for development of its power project.

He said the removal of the merchantable timber from the area now being flooded would never eliminate the eyesore that will stand "as a monument to the callousness and thoughtlessness of the former government."

Mr. Sommers arrived here today from an inspection tour of the area which will be under water in four years.

Vancouver Stocks Closing Prices

Trading was sluggish at Vancouver Exchange in the final session today and stocks closed on a slightly downward note.

Western oils posted a string of moderate setbacks. Calmont at $1.25 was off 5; Del Rio $3, off 10; Central Leduc $3.45, off 5; York 37c, up 1.

In the mines Pacific Nickel was down 13 to 77c; Quatsino closed at 59c and Estella 30c.

COUNCIL TOLD GOVT. WILL KEEP ALL SALES TAX

Belief that the provincial government will take over the entire 3 per cent sales tax was expressed by Ald. Waldo Skillings at a meeting of City Council's finance committee today.

"There is going to be a new shuffle of the tax, news of which will probably be released any day," Ald. Skillings stated.

He said the government would get "a new education cost formula" founded on a mill rate basis.

"It will change the whole picture of school costs."

He did not believe that any municipalities would suffer by the shuffle.

Municipalities at present receive one-third of the sales tax.

Ike Must Get Dem. Support

Bipartisan Backing in Congress Needed; G.O.P. Margin Narrow

AUGUSTA, Ga., Nov. 6 (AP).—President-elect Dwight Eisenhower suggested today that he meet in about 10 days with President Truman to discuss the problem of peace.

Eisenhower replied to a telegram received Wednesday from the president in which Truman proposed such a meeting. The president-elect messaged back that "we tentatively plan the proposed meeting for the early part of the week beginning November 17."

Meanwhile, he said he plans to appoint representatives "for indoctrination in several other departments in the federal government. In this way our own conference can achieve maximum results."

WASHINGTON, Nov. 6 (AP).—The United States Congress has returned to Republican control by a margin so thin that president-elect Dwight D. Eisenhower probably will depend upon bipartisan support to put through many of his policies.

This support, many believe, he is likely to get.

While the general was winning with a landslide vote Tuesday, his supporters fought bitterly for seats in the 83rd Congress.

Eight congressional races went into vote-by-vote counting, with at least three of them dependent upon absentee ballots. In some close races, defeated candidates have indicated they may contest the outcome.

Complete Senate returns gave the Republicans 48 seats and the Democrats 47. Senator Wayne Morse of Oregon, who resigned from the Republican party to support Governor Adlai Stevenson, was listed as an independent. His vote cast with the Democrats could in theory force a deadlock, which the Republican vice-president, Richard Nixon, could break with his vote as Senate leader.

The Democrats held a 49-47 edge in the 82nd Congress.

Republicans Tuesday won 220 seats in the House of Representatives, two more than necessary for control. The Democrats took 206 but one of these became vacant with the death early today of Representative Adolph J. Sabath (Dem., Ill.), dean of the House who had just been elected to his 24th consecutive term.

One independent who usually votes with the Democrats was re-elected, and Democrats were leading in all eight undecided districts.

The Democrats held 232 House seats in the last Congress, but this advantage was largely nullified by an anti-Truman voting coalition of Republicans and Southern Democrats.

The victory gives the Republicans a voting edge, but they will gain greater power by controlling committee chairmanships and other top positions in both Houses. From these posts, Republican leaders can direct the progress of legislation.

Verdict of Manslaughter In Fairweather's Trial

Special to the Times

NANAIMO, Nov. 6.—A Vancouver logger, after living under the shadow of the gallows for more than a year, today was given a new lease on life.

Albert Fairweather, 28, whom a spring Assize Court jury found guilty of murder, for which crime a judge sentenced him to be hanged, today faced a second jury in Nanaimo Assize Court and heard its foreman dismiss the murder charge and find him guilty of the lesser charge of manslaughter.

The jury's verdict came at 12.15.

A retrial for Fairweather was ordered by B.C. Court of Appeal in May when defense counsel appealed conviction on a point of law.

The retrial opened Monday when he was charged a second time with murdering Raymond Boyce, 24, also of Vancouver, during a fracas on the Island Highway a mile north of Duncan on September 19, 1951.

NEAR BREAKING POINT

Since then the ill-starred Fairweather has been dogged by events that have come close to breaking him completely.

Severely injured in the affray that was fatal to a fellow logger, Boyce, he eluded capture for 46 days but was finally arrested in an Edmonton hospital November 5, 1951, after undergoing an operation.

At an Assize Court trial in the spring he was found guilty of murder, and was sentenced March 13 by Mr. Justice J. V. Clyne to hang on June 12.

In May he was granted a stay of execution, and in Court of Appeal was granted a new trial.

This trial was delayed when Fairweather, held in Oakalla Prison, stabbed himself with a home-made knife.

The injuries were not serious, and Warden Hugh Christie said at the time that the knifing appeared to be an attempt to delay trial and not suicide.

Canada Warned Spending Must Be Restrained

QUEBEC, Nov. 6 (CP).—C. F. Fraser, director of the Institute of Public Affairs, Dalhousie University, Halifax, said today Canada must show restraint in spending or face economic destruction and political oblivion.

In an address prepared for delivery before the 30th annual meeting of the Canadian Woollen and Knit Goods Manufacturers' Association, Mr. Fraser said present-day inflationary tendencies threaten to bring about either "a totalitarian system of price policy" or a "collectivist-Communist economic society."

"Unpalatable as such a conclusion may be, the fact remains that the blame for inflation rests upon the shoulders of the individual citizen."

Mr. Fraser said causes of inflation include huge sums of money paid out in social security measures, pressure by trade unions for higher wages and farm blocs for higher prices, expenditures to help economically-backward countries become industrialized to the point where they could become competitive with home industries and efforts to "share the wealth with other countries ostensibly because such international generosity will thwart Communism."

CHARITIES MUST FACE CUTS

Community Chest May Founder

Grave doubts concerning the advisability of maintaining Greater Victoria's Community Chest as collection agency for 17 separate welfare and service organizations here were expressed by certain Chest directors at a special board meeting Wednesday night.

M. V. Chesnut and Roy Denny declared that since citizens had shown themselves unwilling to support the Chest to a sufficient extent, the Chest should disband and that the various agencies should resort to the old system of campaigning separately for funds the year around.

Mr. Denny felt that after one or two years of this, business persons and the public generally would clamor for re-establishment of a united appeal, and would then give it proper support.

There was considerable opposition to this idea, however. Board member Alex Mitchell won support when he argued: "The Chest may have some flaws but it's basically sound and good. We can't destroy it because we have come up against difficulties."

"It was not the committee or its canvassers that failed; it was the people of Greater Victoria," Mr. Mitchell added.

Chest president G. E. G. Whitaker, who has announced his resignation, outlined a plan whereby the Chest could continue to function if its member agencies cut their operations so as to stay within limits of the amount which the public was able to subscribe.

"It's a case of cutting the cloth according to what we have," he said.

He estimated that each of the agencies would have to cut services by about 35 per cent.

"I'm sure they will go along with it," he reiterated today. "The only alternative would be to close the Chest as a joint fund-raising organization. I cant' see that at all. I'd say that possibility was pretty remote."

From the meeting Wednesday night, however, it appeared that at least some of the agencies will raise strong objections.

Conway Parrott, speaking for the Family Welfare and Children's Aid, declared "The Chest must fulfill its function. We think it should raise the money required even if it means campaigns in spring, summer, fall and winter."

R. B. Mathews and J. A. Craig, joint chairmen of this year's Chest drive, said the Chest would lose by attempting to present more than one campaign a year. As reasons for this year's failure, they cited long strikes, economic conditions and the extra campaign held in the spring.

"For every $1 we spent in advertising, the newspapers and radio stations gave us $100 worth of publicity free," Mathews said.

Meeting between Chest officers and representatives of the 17-member agencies has been called for Friday, Nov. 14.

The recent campaign netted $144,000. There is still some hope this figure might eventually hit $155,000. Objective of the drive was $195,000.

Funds on hand are sufficient for the agencies until October, 1953.
